Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO

October 3, 2001

Report Supplied By USDA

Grain and soybean bids were slightly higher in dull trading today.

Support stemmed from technical corrections and fund buying on the Board Wheat steady to 12 cents higher. Corn 1 to 6 cents higher. Sorghum 3 cents higher. Soybeans mostly steady to 1 cent higher with Kansas City 9 cents lower

Wheat bids regained some of past two days losses from mostly technical corrections. Good progress in winter wheat seeding kept a lid on advances.

Some fund buying in wheat pits offered light support and higher corn also underpinned bids.

Cooler, wet weather is in the forecast for the Corn Belt area and the possibility for slowed harvest added strength to corn and soybean bids. Export sales remain very slow this week for both corn and soybeans

All Her Daughters

In the fall of 1998, this editor had the welcome and exciting opportunity to cover the Pennsylvania State Dairy Princess pageant at the Four Points Sheraton in Harrisburg. I watched Nichole Meabon, the incumbent princess (how do you refer to them? Outgoing princess? Year-present royalty? Predecessor princess?), offer the state tiara to Jennifer Dotterer. I had a lot of fun taking photos of the outgoing and the new princess, each in tears. I'm sure Jennifer and Nichole will long remember the life-changing events of their reigns.

But equally strong in my memory are the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Promotion Program (PDPPS), which this newspaper has always and wholly endorsed, and its director, Jan Harding.

At the pageant, if memory serves me correctly, I remember Jan, who seemed to be trying to hold back tears, talk eloquently about her "daughters." I was wondering, what do daughters have to do with a pageant? Then, of course, as slow as an editor may sometime seem, it struck me: she's being honest when she speaks about her "daughters." She meant her dairy princesses. Throughout all the (at that time up to about 14 years) as executive director, Jan really thought of them truly, through all the years of their "grooming" as dairy princesses and as beautiful young women, her "daughters."

Jan is retiring, but will continue to serve as consultant. Under her leadership, 612 county princesses, 513 county alternates, and 1,388 junior promoters, influencing a total of 2,513 young people, achieved dairy promotion.

At the past dairy princess pageant, also at the Four Points Sheraton, new executive director Junia Isiminger said, "I have big shoes to fill."

Jan, along with former directors Bev Minor and Wanda Yoder, received awards during that banquet a couple of weeks ago.

Jan will be feted Sunday, Oct. 14, at the Rockspring Ag Progress Days site. For those years of supreme and sublime dedication to the program, and for all her "daughters," and for those who admired her work, we hope you can attend.

It was always a pleasure to work with Jan, the many times her "daughters" visited our office for the annual Dairy Month drawing and as part of the thousands of dairy promotions Lancaster Farming has been part of. We wish her the best. The words "THANK YOU, JAN" cannot be written large enough, with a big enough type size, or with enough meaning to convey thanks from all of us here at Lancaster Farming.

To Complete Wheat And Barley Plantings

Much-needed rains have delayed small grain planting in many parts of Pennsylvania. Ideally wheat and barley plantings should be completed in most of Pennsylvania by the end of the first week in October. Later plantings can still be successful, however, with a higher seeding rate.

The desired population for winter barley and wheat is 1.5 million per acre (28 to 34 plants per square feet). This requires a seeding rate of approximately 96 pounds per acre for barley and 90-120 pounds for wheat. These seeding rates are adequate if you are seeding under ideal conditions; however, the rates should be increased for seeding under poor conditions. When seeding later than the suggested dates, increase the seeding rate by 30 percent.

Remember, the seeding rate should be based on the number of seeds per acre rather than pounds per acre.

Refer to your owner's manual to determine the proper setting for your drill to achieve the appropriate seeding rate. Sow the seed 1.5 to 2 inches deep and make sure your equipment is covering the seed. Maintain a uniform seeding depth. Shallow seedings cause poor stands.

Satisfactory yields depend on having approximately 40 heads per linear foot of row when winter barley or wheat is planted in 7-inch rows. To achieve this, you need a stand of 18 to 20 plants per foot of row. Winter grain plants have the ability to increase tiller production as the population is reduced. This reduces the effect of low populations on yield. However, populations can be reduced to the point that the land area should be replanted into another crop later in the spring. This occurs when about a 50 percent stand, or 9 to 10 plants per linear foot of row, remains.

To Use Treated Small Grain Seed

Seed- and soil-borne diseases may reduce wheat, barley, oat, and other small grain yields. Principal diseases include seed decays, seedling blights, and loose and covered smuts. Seed treatment with a protectant fungicide increases stands, improves seedling vigor, and eliminates covered smut of wheat and barley as well as loose and covered smut of oats.

Treatment with the proper systemic fungicide eliminates loose and covered smut of wheat, barley, and oats, and prevents damage from seed decay and seedling blights.

For example, grain yield losses from loose smut are directly proportional to the percentage of smutted heads. Ten percent loose smut heads in a wheat field mean a 10 percent yield loss. Carboxin (Vitavax), a systemic fungicide, provides excellent control of loose smut of barley or wheat. Other materials provide control of seed decays, seedling blights, and covered smuts, but not loose smut of barley or wheat. Fungicide formulations are available for use in commercial treating machines and, in some cases, other formulations are available for use in farm drill boxes. In general, treating machines provide more uniform seed treatment. If such service is not available, a drill box treatment may control diseases effectively.

Baytan (triadimenol), a recently registered seed treatment, suppresses early season powdery mildew and leaf rust fungi infection. In years of moderate foliar disease pressure, seed treatment with Baytan may eliminate the need for a foliar fungicide spray. In seasons of severe foliar disease pressure, Baytan seed treatment allows more effective use of fungicide sprays by delaying the onset of infection. Baytan can only be applied with commercial seed treating equipment.

To Scout Fields For Corn Stalk Rot

Dr. John Ayers in the Penn State Plant Pathology Department recommends evaluating your corn fields now to determine which ones have the greatest potential to develop stalk rot.

Averaged over a number of years, stalk rot is clearly the most important disease limiting yields in Pennsylvania corn fields. Anything that stresses a corn plant can increase the potential for stalk rot.

Moisture stress was a major factor this year in Pennsylvania and this contributes to stalk rot incidence. Additionally, diseases such as northern leaf blight and gray leaf spot also contribute to stress and can result in increased stalk rot as well. Growers should scout fields for diseases and make harvest plans to minimize losses because of downed corn. Stalk rot not only results in harvest losses, it can cause problems the following growing season because of volunteer plants from ears left in the field.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

PUT OUT YOUR HAND

Background Scripture:
Exodus 3:1 through 4:17.
Devotional Reading:
Exodus 4:10-16.

When I was in my first pastorate in the suburbs of Harrisburg one day on the way to call in the hospital, I saw a woman hit by a car. As I pulled over to the curb, I was sure that she had not survived, for she had been thrown into the air and came down with a terrible thud. I had always been squeamish about physical injuries.

The sight revolted me. So, I assumed that on this busy street there would be someone less squeamish and more knowledgeable to do whatever needed to be done before an ambulance arrived.

But, although several other people looked on with me, none made a move to go to the fallen woman's side.

At last, I realized that if anything was going to be done, it would have to be me. So, for the first time in my life, I put aside my abdominal butterflies and knelt beside the bloodied woman to do whatever I could do.

Miraculously, she was still alive, although I was sure she could not long survive. Nevertheless, later that same day in the hospital I saw her again and was told that she would recover and live.

An 80-Year-Old Failure

I must confess that putting out my hand that day to touch her was one of the hardest things I had ever done.

But, it seemed, I had no choice because no one else was going to do it and I knew that someone had to at least try. I had no idea how I could be of help to her, but that all became pretty academic when I put out my hand and did what I thought, for me, was impossible, I have since come to realize that most the worthwhile things in the world have been accomplished by people who were just as scared as I was, and just as certain they were not equal to the task.

Today, we celebrate Moses as a great man of faith, but we overlook the fact that he was certain that he was not the man for the job. Up until the time of this great wayside experience, Moses had not demonstrated any leadership or spiritual sensitivity. And, most important of all, something we usually overlook when this challenge came to him, he was already 80 years old, an age long past the point at which people today think they can be of any service.

I Will Turn Aside

So, what made the difference between this 80-year-old failure and the man of faith we revere today? For one thing, Moses made the change possible when, seeing the burning bush, he said to himself, "I will turn aside and see this great sight, why the bush is not consumed" (Exodus 3:).

Probably that one decision is what most differentiates us from Moses. Too many of us would have said, and do say today, "Hmm, isn't that strange!" and kept going. God has a message for each of us, but we will never hear that message unless we are willing to "turn aside and see," to give God a chance to speak from some of the "holy ground" in our own lives.

Perhaps another reason that God was able to reach Moses was that when he was challenged, he was honest about his doubts and reservations. When God proposed to send Moses to Pharaoh as his representative, Moses did not beat around the burning bush: "Who am I that I should go to Pharaoh and bring the sons of Israel out of Egypt?" (3:11). And: "But behold, they will not believe me or listen to my voice . . . "Oh, my Lord, I am not eloquent . . . I am slow of speech and tongue" (4:10). And finally: "Oh, my Lord, send, I pray, some other person" (4:13).

And because Moses was upfront with his reactions, God was able to deal with them. To every objection Moses raised, the answer is found in God's reassurance: "But I will be with you" (3:12).

None of us, by ourselves, is equal to the tasks God lays upon us. We may not have all it takes to do what has to be done. But if we give God what we have, he will make up the difference. If we trust him, we can, if we will, respond when he says to us: "Put out your hand . . ."

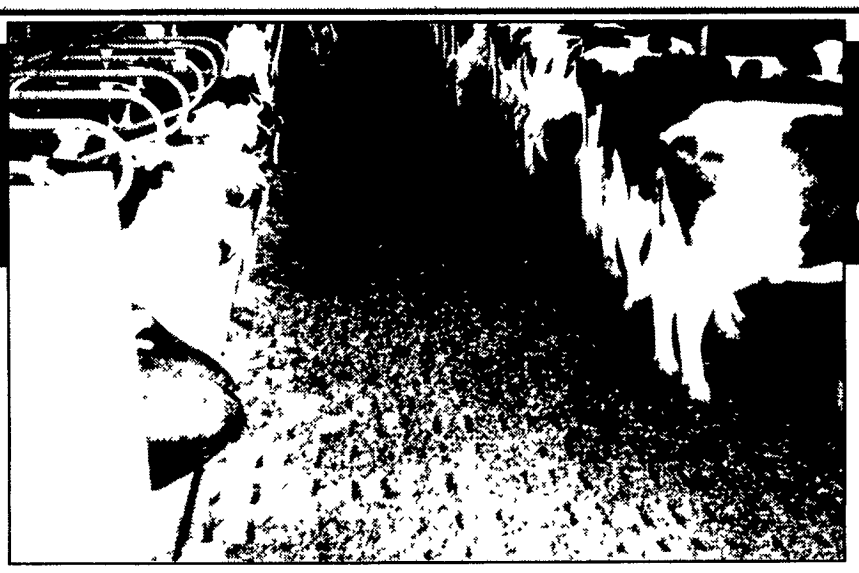
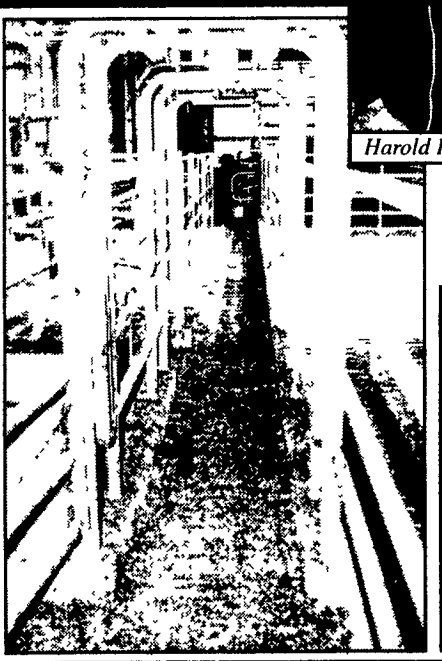
"WAFFLE SLAT" Syri-Con Corporation



"We would use slats again if doing it all over!"



Harold Keeney, David, Nancy & Mark Wolfskill

Our original plan was to install scrapers. But after 10 minutes in a slatted barn in Somerset County, we changed our minds. Some people stay away from slats because of the initial cost, but that extra cost is made up for in the first couple years.

The one thing I like the most about slats is that there is no expense. I don't have any scrapers or drive units to maintain. I don't have to run scrapers every day or haul manure like we did in our previous tie stall barn. The cows' foot health has been a lot better, and the cows stay much cleaner. Our milk production is up and the somatic cell count has gone down. I give at least some of the credit to the slats because with less moisture on the floor, there is less bacteria.

-David Wolfskill

"The answer to the most common question is 'No, there is no build-up.' "

Weekly Dairy Market Outlook

Ken Bailey
Penn State
Sept. 28, 2001

Butter Markets Weaken

- Grade AA butter falls to $1.75.
- Cheese prices still strong.
- Demand weakens.
- Outlook for 2002.

The butter market weakened considerably this week. Grade AA butter price at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange fell from a high of $2.21 per pound the first week of September to $1.75 per pound by Friday, Sept. 28. USDA reports that a combination of high butter stocks and greater imports are pressuring domestic prices.

USDA's Cold Storage report indicates that August butter stocks are 11 percent ahead of year ago. Given year-to-date butter production is down 7.8 percent, this can only mean that consumption, or commercial disappearance, is way down because of high wholesale and retail prices. In fact, USDA reported today that commercial disappearance of butter during May July was down 5.8 percent relative to a year ago. And, the U.S. City average butter price in August was $3.616 per pound, 34.6 percent higher than a year ago.

Butter imports have increased considerably so far this year. For the months of January through August, licensed butter imports (those subject to a lower tariff rate) totaled 13.1 million pounds. That compares to butter imports of 12.2 million pounds during the same period a year ago.

Higher-tier butter imports, those above the quota, were 24.3 million pounds during January through August, up from 94,000 pounds the same period a year ago.

Cheese prices at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange remained relatively stable this week. Block cheese prices fell a penny from $1.71 per pound on Monday, Sept. 24 to $1.70 by Friday, Sept. 28. Barrel cheese prices fell from $1.67 per pound on Monday to $1.64 by Friday.

Cheese production and inventory still remains well below year ago levels. However, commercial disappearance of American cheese during May-July was up 2.3 percent relative to a year ago, and other cheese commercial disappearance was down 0.1 percent. Thus, demand has been sufficient enough to work down inventory. This despite the fact that retail cheese prices have been higher than a year ago. The August U.S. city average retail price for natural cheese was $4.10 per pound, up 3.9 percent from a year ago.

The market for nonfat dry milk remains steady. This is the third consecutive week that no surplus nonfat dry milk has been offered to the Commodity Credit Corporation. Western nonfat dry milk has been selling this week mostly in the range of $0.93-$0.96 per pound.

USDA provided its latest 2002 forecasts of supply and demand for the U.S. dairy industry today. USDA is expecting the milk supply in 2002 to grow 2.6 percent over 2001 levels. Cow numbers are expected to decline 0.6 percent and milk yield per cow is to grow 3.3 percent. At the same time, commercial use is expected to grow just 1.7 percent on a milkfat basis.

Much of this sluggish growth rate in consumption is attributable to a slowing national economy. Stocks are to recover somewhat from declines in 2001. Overall, the Class III price is forecast to be $11.25-$12.25 per CWT, and the Class IV price is to be $11.70-$12.80 per CWT. Both price forecasts are significantly lower when compared to prices this year.

Pasture Perfect®
The Brand of Choice

Pasture Perfect® Dealer of the Week:
Lil' Ponderosa Enterprises

Cattle Enjoy Smorgasbord

This week Ampac Seed Company and Rohrer Seeds salute Bob Boyce, founder and owner of Lil' Ponderosa Enterprises of Carlisle, PA. "We began our business with the objective of proving that the family farm can survive," says Bob Boyce. "We wanted to be good stewards of the land and raise plants and animals that contribute to good health. As we developed our managed intensive grazing system by adding animals, improving forages and fertility on the farm, we soon recognized that we needed to find suppliers that were knowledgeable, reliable, and in it for the long haul. Rohrer Seeds has helped meet this need and is now an integral part of our farming operation." Bob now uses Rohrer's seeds and is a dealer for them. Lil' Ponderosa also offers Gallagher Fencing supplies, Vermeer haying equipment, TICO manufactured irrigation systems, poly feed bunks and watering troughs.

Bob Boyce
Lil' Ponderosa Enterprises

For their own operation, the Boyces are currently thickening their cow/calf paddocks with a blend of Tonga tetraploid perennial ryegrass, Bronson tall fescue, Starfire red clover, and Jumbo ladino clover. After using them for several years, Bob "is convinced Pasture Perfect® mixes are superior. We have used many of the Pasture Perfect® mixes and are very pleased with all of them. Not only do they produce well in the spring and fall, but also during the summer slump. Our cattle enjoy a year 'round smorgasbord of grasses, legumes, and other crops selected exclusively from Rohrer's. We welcome all inquiries, call or stop by!"

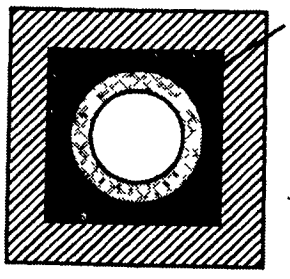
... For New Construction Why Not Examine The "Chimtek Difference."



Chimtek Inner Liners are made of volcanic pumice and high-temperature refractory cements. Its round shape provides even temperature inside flue and contributes to efficient flow of smoke and flue gasses. The volcanic pumice in Chimtek liners adds considerable insulating value.

All three chimneyliner systems distributed by DS Machine Shop are of super design, super performance, and super value. With all their advantages these chimney systems often cost no more than ordinary chimneys. Write or call us for more specific liner information.

At the time of this report, the New England Compact had not been renewed by the U.S. Congress, which means Congressional consent ran out on September 30. Proponents of the Compact are not totally convinced that it is dead and are hoping for a resurrection in the near future. In the meantime, the Compact Commission has taken action on the disposition of assets and liabilities Acting on a request from cooperatives and handlers, the Market Administrator in the Northeast Marketing Area, announced a change in the required shipping percentage for pool supply plants. The percentage has been increased to 25% (up 5%) for the months of October and November

Milk production in the East continues to show small gains, particularly in the Southeast. In the Northeast, milk production is picking up and Class I demand is about steady Surplus milk volumes are heavier this week as many cheese operations have cut back on processing schedules. This is pushing more milk into butter/powder plants Milk output in the Southeast is increasing seasonally. The need for milk from Northern and Midwestern sources eased this week Fat and protein tests on the incoming milk are increasing in all regions. Manufacturing plants are still operating on light schedules in the Southeast.

The condensed skim market is unsettled Suppliers are estimating October's Class III skim price to be higher than September. The result is sharply higher Class III condensed skim prices. Buyers are, in all likelihood, going to protest such a big jump. Some suppliers are working to keep costs down, but others expect to "crank up" the dryers. Class II condensed skim prices are relatively unaffected and holding about steady.

The fluid cream market remains weak. Offerings are heavy and demand is slow. Spot prices are sharply lower. Last week's CME butter average fell more than 32 cents from the week before. Some Class III & IV buyers continue to purchase at low multiples, based on the CME the date of delivery or based on next week's average. Class II buyers are reluctant to take any spot loads as prices fall and the price range is nominal Ice cream sales are slowing seasonally. Production of cream cheese and sour cream are lagging normal levels, but should be increasing in the near future. Churning activity is heavier, but butter makers are reluctant to take too much outside cream at this time.

KILE Opening Ceremony Conducted Thursday

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The 45th Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE), was officially opened Thursday afternoon with a short ceremony in the small arena.

Don Tanner, KILE co-chairman, welcomed the audience and had a moment of recollection for the Sept. 11 tragedies. Sam Hayes, secretary of agriculture, thanked "the men and women of agriculture" for their contributions to the show, and for Farm Show workers who have just completed the large All-American Dairy Show.

Charles Itle gave an update on the show's numbers. Since last year, KILE grew by 200 total entries of beef cattle, sheep, swine, horse and wool entries over last year.

More than 1,100 exhibitors will exhibit 4,458 animal and wool entries.

In the beef cattle shows, 914 entries — 129 more than last year — will be exhibited. The sheep show boasts 81 more entries than last year, a number up to 1,578 animals.

There will be 30 more pigs in this year's swine show, as 986 pigs are entered. The horse show increased by six horse entries, up to 961 entries this year.

Special shows this year include the Clydesdale Eastern Regional Show, the Limousin Medal of Excellence Show and National Point Show for Simmental, the National Junior Swine Association Eastern Regional Show, the Southdown Eastern Regional Show and Shorthorn National Point Show, the Junior Breeding Sheep Shows, the Eastern Regional Hereford Classic Show and the Northeast Regional Highland Cattle Association Show.

Also during the ceremony Lebanon County native Harry Bachman was inducted into the Hall of Fame. "It's a great honor, more than I ever dreamed I would have," he said. It's an award I'm going to cherish for the rest of my life."

Michael Firestine, outgoing president of the Pennsylvania Livestock Association, gave out the youth awards. The female FFA youth award recipient was Jenniffer Zimmerman, Reinholds. Brandon Herman, Beavertown was the male FFA award recipient. 4-H award winners included Deidra Smith, Glencoe, and John Strawbridge, Whitehall.

Since this is the "year of the sheep" at Farm Show, exhibitors brought in representatives of the thirteen breeds of sheep that are shown during KILE. Ron Miller gave a brief description of each breed.

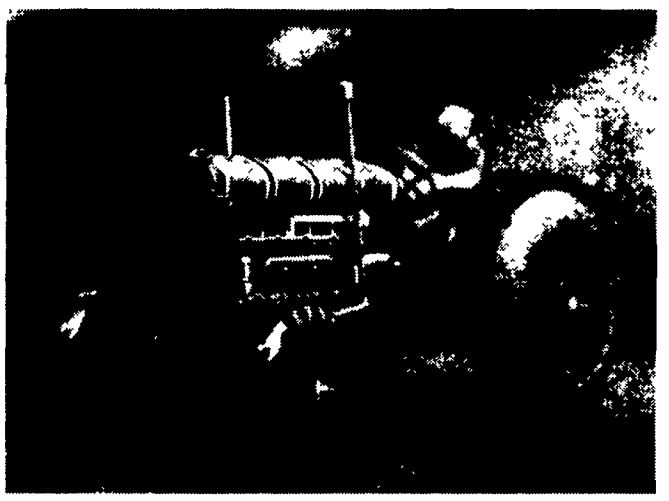
SOMETIMES PLACING VALUE ON SOMETHING TODAY,

MAKES IT MORE VALUABLE TOMORROW.



Take cattle supplements. Some cattlemen are guilty of waiting too long to supplement their cattle. They wait until their pastures are gone or cattle begin to lose body condition. The simple truth is it's more expensive to feed cattle to gain weight back than it is to maintain their body condition. Spending a little time and money now can make a big difference in the calving and breeding seasons. Enter PRO-LIX® liquid supplements. You know the name, but did you know that PRO-LIX gives you the most nutrition for your dollar? Providing your herd with proven performance and you a labor-saving feeding solution. PRO-LIX liquid supplements are actually priced delivered and fed to your herd. If you're looking for a cost-effective supplement to help increase your bottom line, isn't it obvious which product to look for?

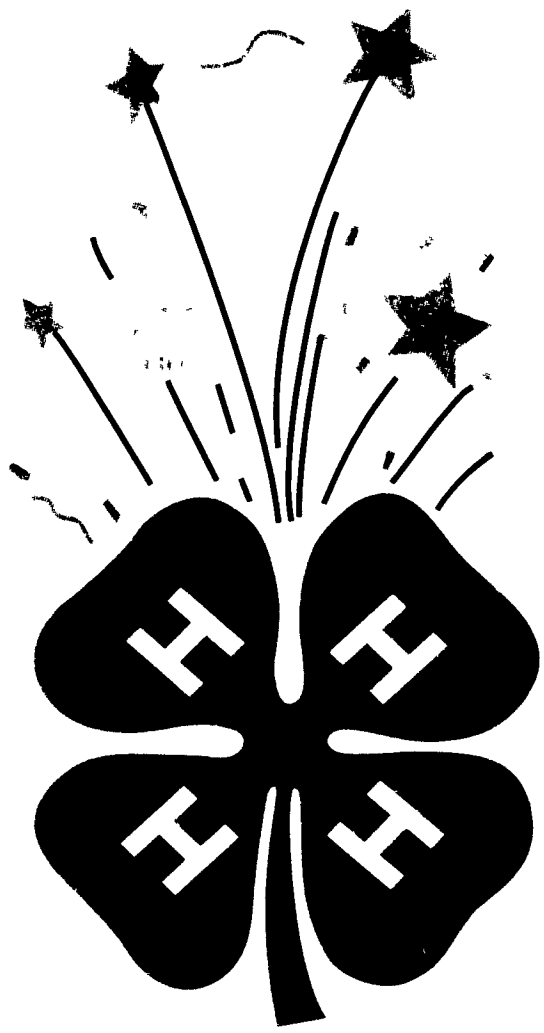
4-H The Power of YOUth



1902 - 2002

The National Conversation on Youth Development in the 21st Century

In recognition of the centennial celebration of the 4-H program in the United States, Public Law 107-19 was passed to provide a $5 million gift from the national government to sponsor a National Conversation on Youth Development in the 21st Century. The 4-H Program is proud to invite you to be a part of the excitement! In the next few months, many county 4-H programs in Pennsylvania will be holding a local conversation. YOU can get involved!

The goal of the conversation is to answer the question, "Within the next three to five years, what are the most important actions we can take to create the future we want for youth, ourselves, and our community?" Your input can make a difference!

Following is a list of conversation data for counties in the Capital Region. Please call in advance for more information or to register. If you do not see your county listed, contact your local Penn State Cooperative Extension Office and ask to speak with someone from the 4-H program. Youth and adults are encouraged to attend.

Kenneth Root

"Burn down your cities and leave our farms, and your cities will spring up again as if by magic..."
Guest Columnist and Keynote Speaker Lancaster Chamber Agriculture Industry Banquet: Kenneth Root Extracted from "Root Connection," September 12, 2001

The quote from William Jennings Bryan is as accurate today as it was when uttered a hundred years ago. Bryan went on to make his point: "but destroy our farms and the grass will grow in the streets of every city in the country." The body and soul of our country are not (in) our skyscrapers and financial markets, but in our productive land and people who fulfill the basic needs of a free society.

I was appalled by the images of exploding glass, sudden death, suffering and shock, but I have no doubt that New York City will remove the rubble, reconstruct their buildings, and deal with the emotions of personal loss. Terrorists continue to find that toppling our buildings is a lot easier than toppling our government. As daring and devastating as the attack was, it did no permanent damage to our political or financial systems. Terrorists have yet to find a way to strike a blow against the real strength of America.

When Bryan uttered his immortal words, the country was experiencing economic problems similar to those we face today. America was moving into a new century facing new technology that boggled the mind. The internal combustion engine was propelling automobiles and soon would allow airplanes to fly. The first discoveries in medicine and nuclear energy were being made and electricity and communications were seeing commercial application. Change was afoot, long held traditions were being challenged and there was a great uncertainty.

In the "Cross of Gold" speech that secured him his Democratic party's 1896 nomination for president, he spoke out in support of farmers who produced the necessities of modern life and tried to show that all accomplishments are built on the backs of the producers of food and industrial materials.

We are now at the turn of another century in an era of great technological innovation, change, and uncertain economic times. Yet America still prospers because of the same underpinnings productive land, progressive people, and a government that encourages investment.

I would be remiss if I did not mention that our greatest external conflicts of the past century, the world wars, were decided in our favor because of our agricultural and industrial might. Farm boys who became soldiers and sailors willing to die dark, lonely deaths to protect their country wielded America's strength. I see those emergency workers who entered Manhattan's doomed buildings to do their jobs, dying a dark, lonely death, as today's soldiers for America.

I should also point out that Mr. Bryan's Populist agenda failed to obtain him the presidency, even though he was nominated three times. He believed that the people of agriculture were all he needed to win; even at a time when we were a rural nation, he was wrong. Bryan failed to realize that America is strong because of its diversity and a candidate that promotes a single sector over others will not be given the nod to govern.

Today rural America is long on resources and short on people. We have impact only on a narrow sector of government and economic policy, yet we provide the basic wealth and strength of this country. Discontent among farmers is likely to spawn another great orator who will lead crusades like Bryan's or that of the National Farmers Organization and its rabble-rousing president, Orrin Lee Staley. We have not and will not be well served by extremist views. Everyone in America is dependent on everyone else. Raw materials have no value without the chain of businesses that bring the finished goods to market and send wealth back down the line to the producer. Government must be broad-based and even-handed to recognize and discourage excesses in any area.

We are a strong country because everyone can share in the American dream. We are far from perfect, but we are capable of seeing the true strength of our country and our role in making it a better place for future generations. Capitalism can be cruel and long periods of prosperity tend to make socialists out of us, but a dose of reality like the terrorist bombing of the centers of businesses and military command in our most visible cities, cause us to look inward to find that our heart and soul are still solid.

America works! The American political system stands strong. As long as wheat grows in Kansas and corn in Iowa, no grass will grow in the streets of New York City.

Meeting Readies Grange

tured speakers who gave presentations pertaining to agricultural issues, medical tort reform, and education, 35 people who make up four Grange committees met to discuss policy recommendations for the upcoming convention.

The convention is scheduled for October 20-23 in Altoona.

The meeting last week, according to John Master, executive committee chairman from Franklin, Venango County, begins the process of setting Grange policy for the coming year.

Each committee (executive, family issues, government issues, and agriculture) has received resolutions, or issues, that have come from local groups into the state office. The committees may work 6-7 issues that address an idea into the one basic idea, then discuss and vote on whether they agree or disagree.

For instance, the agriculture committee will discuss issues such as maintaining agriculturally zoned land, resident Canada geese, animal health, and farm policy. The family issues committee will discuss social security, education, health care, and patriotism.

The government issues committee will discuss the federal election process, rural transportation, taxation, and local infrastructure.

The committees will then make their recommendations to the delegate body at the state session in October. "As the executive committee, we can look at the issues and know how to handle them, especially as members go before legislators, based on how the delegate body voted," he said.

"The Grange has grassroots impact on legislators, and this process provides input on how the membership feels," he said.

Ag Channel, Issue Update

Walt Peetchatka, executive vice president of Penn Ag Industries, presented updates on various agriculture-related topics.

First on his agenda was a report on the proposed "Ag Channel." The channel would educate the non-ag public, said Peetchatka, and the Council of Farm Organizations has put together a committee to explore the idea.

Originally the channel was meant to be a full-time offering, patterned after such channels in the Midwest that feature a steady stream of agriculture information for the public. However upon further research, which included Penn State, the committee decided to recommend a 3-4-hour time block each week to start with.

"The ag council is united in that we need such a thing," said Peetchatka. "We're just looking at how to go about it."

In other education news, he told Grange members of the advancements made in the Agriculture in the Classroom program. For 10 years, teachers have been offered weeklong training at Penn State on how to incorporate agriculture information into their curriculum. This program averaged 100 participants per year, he said.

With appropriations from the state, however, that are available to the ag awareness foundation, the training may be available via video conferencing and as the information would be relayed via satellite to reach new areas and a greater number of teachers.

Peechatka also addressed nutrient management during his remarks. The House Ag Committee has conducted two hearings to discuss changes in legislation dealing with nutrient management, he said.

They are expected to issue a report soon to recommend that the state conservation commission revise the rules and regulations, and look at the "loopholes" of the nutrient management act. Peechatka warned of the risks in opening up legislation for such reworking, as new legislation could be even more restrictive for producers.

Scott Chadwick, now a lobbyist for the Pennsylvania Medical Society, addressed law in his presentation about tort reform.

Theodore Hershberg, professor of public policy at the University of Pennsylvania, spoke about education at the recent meeting.

In the same vein, he introduced the challenge of strong local governments that are adopting ordinances that are restrictive to agriculture. After a Bradford County township adopted an ordinance that was found to be unlawful, the township was taken to court and lost the case. The legal battle, however, cost $80,000, so Peechatka pointed out that agriculture organizations would be facing heavy court and legal fees if townships continued to adopt such restrictive ordinances, even if they are unlawful and agriculture won the cases.

The agricultural community has three options, he said. Number one is to ignore the problem, number two pursue legal battles in court, or number three, seek legislative relief.

One example of such relief is Senate Bill 826, sponsored by 11 Senators, which amends the Right to Farm Act. In a case between a township and the ag committee, if the ag committee wins, they can recover the costs at the township's expense.

The second piece of legislation is House Bill 1114, which amends the Real Estate Disclosure Act. This act ensure that residents who move to the country must be informed that they are in an agricultural area, and the incoming resident must acknowledge that.

Former representative Scott Chadwick, now a lobbyist for the Pennsylvania Medical Society, also addressed law in his presentation about tort reform.

"Doctors are caught in a real squeeze," he said. "Medical malpractice insurance rates are exploding."

Chadwick pointed out that two major malpractice insurance carriers are hiking their rates by 40 and 50.3 percent next year. Pennsylvania has no tort reform, according to Chadwick.

There will be an impending crisis of available health care as physicians retire early, move to other states, or give up high risk procedures, said Chadwick. Additionally the commonwealth will have increasing trouble recruiting new physicians.

Chadwick is involved in an aggressive campaign for tort reform. Two bills addressing reform have now successfully made it through the Senate.

One bill allows physicians to recover court and attorney costs from frivolous lawsuits. The Pennsylvania Medical Society also hopes to introduce a venue bill to restrict cases being filed in, for example, Philadelphia, which has a higher incidence of monies awarded for malpractice suits.

The society is also working on a bill addressing patient safety by correcting systems areas and strengthening the Pennsylvania medical board, which oversees and sanctions physicians who consistently practice bad medicine.

Theodore Hershberg, professor of public policy at the University of Pennsylvania, believes the most important issue facing the country is educating children.

"The truth is that our schools, which have served this nation so well for so long, is no longer of capable of educating our students in the economy we are in today." In a campaign called "Operation Public Education," the campaign's goal is to ensure that all of Pennsylvania's children meet the standards for success with adequate and equitable funding for schools and systems of accountability.

"In the current system, rural schools are getting the shaft more than any other schools," said Hershberger, who pointed out that the new technologies, and high-paying jobs, favor the better-educated. He predicted a wider gap between income levels in the coming years.

"The simple truth is, third-world skills are going to earn third-world wages," he said

Pennsylvania's school funding system is lacking, he said. "School funding will emerge as the civil rights issue of this century," said Hershberger. "A zip code should not determine the quality of a child's education. Rather, a baseline number of dollars needed to educate each student should be established," he said.

The type of education must also be changed, he said. "The challenge is clear: we have to change our schools. We can't just have memorization. Education experience needs to include solving problems and learning how to think. We have to start getting kids to think at the beginning, and teachers are not trained to do it," he said.

Changing school systems means a switch from teacher-centered — or lecture and listen format — to student-centered system, where students have more responsibility for their own learning and participate in hands-on projects.

"We can turn schools around by training them to teach kids to think rather than to memorize," he said, but also acknowledged that a degree of memorization is necessary.

Besides changing the way teachers are trained and consequently the way they teach children, incentives need to be added to America's school system, he said. "We have got to find intelligent incentives that connect teaching to the learning outcomes," he said.

Also in the current system each teacher's creativity and innovation is generally confined to that classroom. "Isolation in education is the enemy of learning," he said.

"We need to create a climate where teachers want to share their craft, that there are mentors, coaches, or that they can participate in programs where they watch good teachers.

"You can't change schools by getting tough but rather by holding everyone accountable for what they do."

A rural district, for example, has 98 percent of its students at the international standard because the district took seriously the call to change from memorization, he said.

Once teachers are held accountable, said Hershberger, they would ask for the changes in funding and legislation needed to meet the accountability standards.

In summary, he said that the school funding system needs to be changed, a flexible compensation system, which rewards high-performing teachers in non-competitive ways, should be instated. And mandatory remediation for teachers who are not performing should also be a part of the new school system.

"We can have a much better school system," he said.

Expo Has Successful Debut

busy" were heard throughout the two-day event conducted recently at the West End Fairgrounds, Gilbert.

So busy in fact was Carl Givler of Y-Knot Alpacas, Orefield, that the cup of coffee and snack he wanted to enjoy after setting up their display area on the first morning was not to be had until late that afternoon. Wife, JoAnne, and daughter, Amy, conducted several demonstrations in the Alpaca obstacle course throughout the expo. JoAnne said she was amazed at the number of people that kept flowing past their area and all the questions and interest they had in their animals.

The Givler family who are members of the Alpaca Owners and Breeders Association started raising their Alpacas three years ago and raise their animals for breeding, pets, and fiber. There are two breeds of alpaca with the main difference being the type of fleece they produce. Y-Knot Alpacas had both the suri and huacaya on display for visitors to see. Alpacas are safe and pleasant to be around with their primary product being the soft and luxurious fleece that is sheared once a year. You can usually raise about five to 10 alpacas per acre and they are environmentally friendly as their soft, padded feet cause little compaction to damage the terrain.

Boyd and Janet Smith of Kunkletown, breeders of poultry and Rambouillet sheep, presented several demonstrations on fancy fowl and raising sheep. Boyd said he was told that at least 60 people had been listening to him during one of his demonstrations, a fact he had not been aware of. Throughout the event crowds were frequently seen near the Smith's barred rock chickens and petite ducks listening as Smith explained the various aspects of raising poultry in the rural setting.

Presentations on traditional cattle breeds were done by Kevin Milz. Proudly representing the N.J. Polled Hereford Association was Benny Przewozny, 10, of B & B Farm, Chalfont, N.J. Przewozny, along with his parents, brought his cow-calf pair, DHF Suzanne J7 with her first calf, Duke, for display. Suzanne is the foundation of Przewozy's breeding herd with Duke intended to be next year's 4-H market steer project. Przewozny is looking forward to showing his cattle at the 2003 National Junior Hereford Show at the Farm Complex, Harrisburg.

The Przewozny family was busy answering questions throughout the event as was Joe Keifer of JH Keifer Farm, Bangor, representing the Pennsylvania Angus Association with his registered Angus heifer.

Milz also presented demonstrations on special breed cattle along with Darcy Gannon of Mountain View Farm, Kunkletown. Gannon and husband, Boyd, brought two pair to pygmy zebu to the expo. The pygmy zebu originated in Sri Lanka and reach weights of 200-400 pounds at maturity with heights of 38-42 inches. Boyd said he prefers to use the pygmy zebu to train his cutting horses as they remain agile and ready to move due to their small size and nature. Domestic cattle tend to get lazy as they gain weight as well as becoming accustomed to the horses.

In addition to using the zebu to train their horses, Mountain View Farm has sold pairs to individuals who have sold their horses but still have pasture land that needed to be maintained. Pygmy zebu are ideal for small areas where the larger traditional cattle breeds may not be suitable.

The parade of horse breeds and horse and oxen driving demonstrations were popular events on both days.

Tom Mulea, with his assistant Shawn Beam, of Twin Pines Farm, Oxford, N.J., brought his 2,360-pound 6-year-old Red and White Holstein ox, Tom. Mulea uses his ox for logging and daily farm chores. Mulea also uses Tom for many demonstrations at historical farms throughout the area. He also brought a young team of oxen that are currently in training to the expo.

Tom Mulea, Oxford N.J., with his 2,360 pound ox, Tom, prior to his demonstration during the Small Farm and Rural Living Expo, Gilbert. Mulea does demonstrations at historical farms throughout the area and uses ox on his farm to perform daily chores.

Also a part of the horse driving and breed demonstration was Craig Brodt, 15, of Saylorsburg. Brodt is in the ninth grade in the Pleasant Valley school district. Brodt purchased his 4-year-old POA (Ponies of America) mare, DeeDee, this past February and has since trained her to ride and drive. Brodt has four POAs at home.

The driving demonstration included Hackney Ponies and an Arabian with the highlight being the pair of Percheron geldings of Arminda Seese, Reeders. Bob and Bill, both 7, were purchased five years ago from Roger and Sandy Burger who were in the audience to cheer them on. Seese, assisted by Bernice Keiper, drove the pair pulling a wagon and later a snow-white carriage that is used in weddings. Seese has entered her horses in local fairs and recently entered a plowing contest where she was the only woman in the competition.

One of the most popular animal demonstrations was the herding Border Collies owned by Gene Sheninger of Wayside Farm, Boonton, N.J. Sheninger raises 130 sheep on 70 acres and uses the dogs regularly in herding his sheep. He also does extensive travel doing demonstrations with his dogs. Sheninger has competed in trial competitions along the east coast. The U.S. Border Collie Handlers Association (USBCHA), of which Sheninger belongs, is the organization that supports the U.S. National Finals, accumulating points for each dog throughout the show year. Only 150 dogs qualify to compete each year at the National Finals and Sheninger has qualified each year since 1990.

OH, THE PRICE OF MILK!

Vinton Smith
Dairy Agent
Adams, Cumberland And York Counties

So, the price of milk has been quite favorable over the past several months, right? At least I have not heard many complaints.

Well, according to the market administrator, the "statistical uniform price" in Federal Order 1 for August 2001 was $17.53! That is a remarkable price for milk and is quite pleasing to many dairy farmers.

While this high milk price is surely helping your current cash flow situation, you really need to be preparing for the time when the price falls. I don't want to be pessimistic; in fact, I am generally a strong optimist. But, it is important that we be realistic about our expectations of the milk market.

Thinking back over the past several years, we can get a very clear historical picture of the milk pricing trends. Since about 1996, the milk price has been quite volatile. (A chart showing this volatility is available by visiting our Website, http://capitaldairy.cas.psu.edu, and clicking on "column.") While, the overall average price has been on an upward trend, there have been several periods of time with extremely low prices. These low prices present a tremendous challenge to many dairy farm business owners as they work to maintain a positive cash flow.

Even the most successful dairy businesses will have difficulty managing through the periods of low milk prices unless they aggressively work toward gaining a greater understanding of this issue. The time to think about how you will manage this is now! With today's milk prices, farm owners and managers have an opportunity to proactively prepare for the inevitable.

There are two ways in which dairy producers can manage these price swings. First, dairy producers can continue to accept the cash price as they market their milk. Secondly, dairy producers can proactively manage the price they receive and strive to minimize the lows through forward contacting and futures options. Regardless of your choice, you must decide how you will manage these drastic swings in the milk price.

Accepting the cash price: If you choose to continue accepting the cash price for milk you produce and market, there are several key issues that you should consider. First, you need to recognize that you will need to use income from the periods of high milk prices to balance out less cash income during periods of low milk prices. During periods of higher prices, you may consider paying down more debt, purchasing extra supplies, making capital investments from cash flow, making repairs to machinery that have been put off, stashing some cash reserves, or even making off-farm investments.

You certainly need to be cautious about making capital investments that will require more cash when the prices are low. Every investment decision needs to be made and evaluated based on your ability to make the debt payments during the periods of low milk prices. Being frugal today is just as important as being frugal when the prices are low.

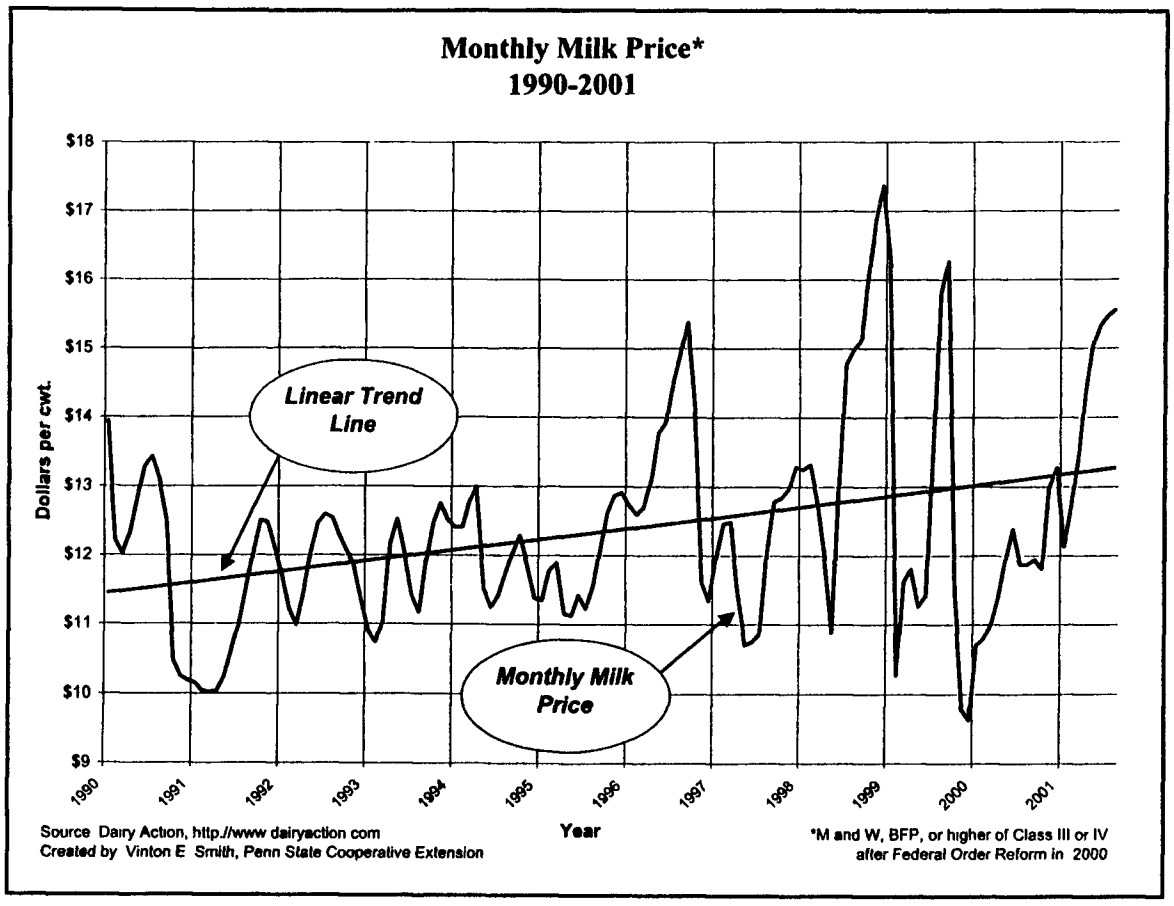
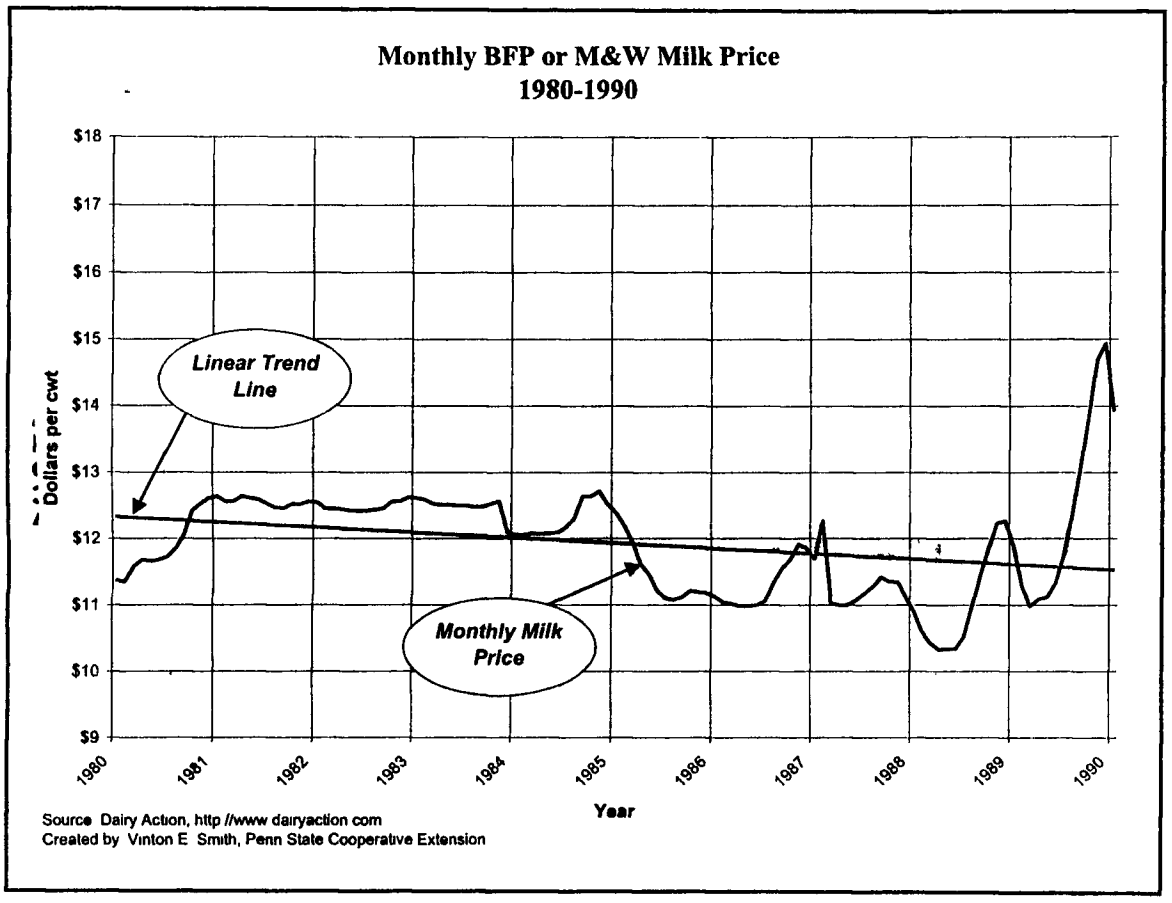
Proactively manage the milk price. Choosing to proactively manage the price you receive through forward pricing will give you the opportunity to minimize the drastic swings in the milk price, thereby lowering the challenges of meeting the cash flow requirements of your dairy. Many farms just can't take the risk of receiving low prices, and others may want to simply try to minimize the impact of very low prices. Regardless of the size of your farm, your business structure, debt structure, or cash flow situation, managing your milk price through forward pricing is a viable alternative.

There are several options available to dairy producers who wish to implement forward pricing on their dairies. Many milk cooperatives offer opportunities for their members to "lock in" prices ahead of time through forward contracting. The USDA is in the process of preparing for the fourth year of the Dairy Options Pilot Program (DOPP). This program enables dairy producers in select counties to receive reimbursement of some of the costs involved in buying options on the futures market. To learn more about managing your milk price, visit the Dairy Outlook Website at http://dairyoutlook.aers.psu.edu/.

Understand this process of forward pricing and thinking about how you can manage it on your farm can seem a bit overwhelming. The Capitol Region Dairy Team has coordinated a very thorough three-day program that will enable you to learn more about this process. Every participant will gain an understanding of how they can implement forward pricing strategies on their dairy. It is being offered in three locations: The Lighthouse Restaurant in Chambersburg, Franklin County Oct. 24, 31 and Nov. 7; The Country Fare Restaurant in Myerstown, Lebanon County, Oct. 25 and Nov, 1 and 8; and at the Lancaster County Extension Office in Lancaster County Oct. 26 and Nov. 2 and 9.

For more information about these programs or to register, call Tim Beck in York County at (717) 840-7408.





Winnie, McCaffrey's Capture Shire Mare Trophy At KILE

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — There are different colors of Shires, those showy horses with angelic hoofs and poised demeanor.

They come in colors such as "bay," black, and gray, and as they get older, like softening and wizened grandparents, they whiten up.

But for Ox Kill Farm and exhibitor Erin, 25-year-old daughter of Gene and Vicky McCaffrey, Schoharie, N.Y., one aged mare, a 9-year-old nicknamed "Winnie," wasn't too white to go unnoticed. The horse captured grand champion Shire mare Wednesday afternoon at the Keystone International Livestock Expo (KILE) in Harrisburg.

Winnie's full moniker is "Whinmoor Wonder," which happened to be last year's national Shire champion, also awarded at KILE, according to Erin. Winnie was senior champion at this year's Ohio State Fair.

"We imported the mare from England," said Erin. "We bought her from some people in Canada."

Winnie has been in the show ring at the Ohio and New York state fairs, in addition to county fairs. The McCaffreys, from Schoharie, N.Y. (near Albany), also exhibited their stallion to senior champion and reserve grand champion at KILE.

The KILE regional event is one of, if not the, largest shows in the country, noted judge Brian Coleman, Alberta, Canada. Coleman, who raises Percherons, said the eastern regional show at KILE has the "best numbers I've seen for an American Shire show."

Every other year, KILE hosts the national show.

Percherons and Haflinger shows were also conducted concurrently Wednesday, one day before KILE officially opened.

Derick Bollinger, 17, was grand champion winner at New Holland Fair's Swine Show Tuesday evening. He is joined by Cheryl Fairbairn, show judge.

43 Hogs At New Holland Show

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Twenty exhibitors showed 43 hogs at New Holland's Swine Show on Tuesday evening. Each participant was allowed to bring three hogs.

Cheryl Fairbairn, livestock extension agent for Chester County, judged the show. In the end Fairbairn had to pick from four Belted Crossbred hogs for grand champion placing. "This is a heavy-duty class of pigs out there," she said.

Derick Bollinger, 17, a senior at Manheim Central High School, showed the grand champion hog. Derick, who is in the college application process, would like to major in animal science or an agriculture-related major.

He is the son of Eugene and Carol Bollinger, Manheim, and has two older sisters. The family has a 10-acre farm that houses Derick's 4-H project animals. This year he had 23 pigs, 20 purebred Shropshire sheep, seven market lambs, and a Crossbred steer.

These numbers are slowly depleting, however, as Derick has shown and sold his animals at 4-H Roundup, Elizabethtown, Ephrata, and now New Holland fairs. He plans to exhibit at Manheim Fair, Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE), and the Farm Show.

Derick bought the grand champion hog in Ohio, where he purchased eight of his hogs this year.

Reserve champion hog owned by FFA participant Sarah Boyd, a heavyweight winner, was "sound on its feet and legs and moves out well," said Fairbairn.

Boyd has two hogs remaining — down from the 15 she began with at the beginning of show season. She also showed not only hogs but also sheep at Denver and Ephrata. She brought two hogs to New Holland's show, which she will sell on Friday evening. Three of Boyd's sheep joined her hogs at the New Holland Fair.

Boyd and her family live on a 50-acre property in Clay. She is planning to exhibit hogs and sheep at KILE.

Although Fairbairn has not judged at the show for several years, "We have quality of hogs here as usual," she said.

"I look for the total package — not only meat and muscle but structural correctness," she said. These market hogs have brother and sisters that will carry on genetics, she noted, and the animals should be sound.

There was "nothing neglected" in the senior showmanship class, and Fairbairn had similar complimentary comments for each class of well-prepared showmen. She looked for each individuals' ability to control the animal, taking into consideration the temperament and behavior of the animal.

She also watched for "the ability of the showman to move the hog back and forth and keep them moving amidst the confusion."

It's mind-numbing, back-breaking work. Loading bales. Working crops. Tilling, mowing, raking, baling and the list goes on. It'll grind you to the bone – and take an average tractor down hard. But Massey Ferguson 4200 Series tractors deliver unmatched performance, durability and comfort to keep you going long after others give out. The long-stroke Perkins Fastram™ diesel cranks outhigh torque, even when RPMs drop. Powertrains range from manual shift to high-outputPowerShuttle. Dual-system hydraulics, a beefy linkage and new lift geometry generate optimum lift. Even the hydraulic filter never quits – just wipe it clean every 1,000 hours and keep on going. And touches like an adjustable spring-suspension seat, adjustable tilt steering and more mean you'll last as long as your Massey Ferguson 4200.

Exhibitors From All Over East Exhibit At All-American Ayrshire Show

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Ayrshire exhibitors from Pennsylvania, Maryland, New York, Ohio, Georgia, Delaware, and Canada came to the Farm Show complex to compete in the ring at the All-American Show Tuesday.

Mike Heath, Westminster, Maryland, judged the show. Heath buys and sells show cattle and is a cattle broker for all breeds. He exhibits his own animals and has exhibited and enjoyed success at the All-American show in the past. He judges regional shows, state shows, and provincial shows in Canada.

The grand champion Ayrshire, owned by Andrew Evans, caught judge Heath's eye with the height and width of her rear udder, the strength of her front end, and her long body. Andrew, 17, hails from Sunny Acres Farm, Georgetown, N.Y.

Andrew is the seventh generation of the Evans family to live on the 200-acre farm that is mostly pasture and crops. He hopes to continue to keep the farm going. He is also interested in veterinary medicine, the vocation of his father.

The family milks 35 cows and own a total of 70 head of Ayrshire and Jersey cattle. They attend 3-5 shows per year and travel to Louisville, Ky.; Toronto, Canada; Madison, Wis.; and the New York State Fair, besides attending the All-American and county fairs in their area. "I've always enjoyed coming down here," said Andrew. "It's probably my favorite show to come to."

The family brought 14 head of cattle to exhibit at the All-American competition. Three of them, grand champion winner included, are Andrew's own animals. He has been exhibiting cattle for nine years.

The cow has been in the show ring "since she was old enough to show," said Andrew. She has been junior All-American and reserve All-American twice, so Andrew was hoping she would continue to get high marks at the show.

Jeffrey and Michele Reasner, Newburg, took home reserve champion Ayrshire honors. They milk 65 Jersey, Ayrshire, and Holstein cows on their 35-acre dairy. They attend six major shows per year.

They brought 10 head of Jersey and Ayrshire animals to compete in Harrisburg. Last month Jeffrey purchased the reserve champion winner for Michele's birthday from friends in Canada. The Reasners have a bull contract on her and will flush her after she freshens in December, according to Michele.

The breed show was part of the All-American Show that was recently conducted at the Farm Show complex. The event drew exhibitors from 24 states.

The total number of cattle entered is up nine percent over last year, according to Larry Specht, dairy cattle superintendent of the show. Exhibitors brought 187 Ayrshires into the ring at the show.

Holsteins were the breed with the highest number of entrants, 600, followed by the 300-plus Jerseys, 226 Guernseys, 206 Brown Swiss, and 1,150 Shorthorn entrants. The number of scratches will reduce the actual number through the ring, said Specht.

The open shows feature six breed shows. In Monday's junior show, exhibitors brought 800 head in the seven-breed show.

To operate the numerous contests, work in the ring or in record keeping, set up and maintain the antique show or food stands, and work in hospitality, the show needs "all but 200 volunteers," said Lolly Lesher, fundraising coordinator. "They work hard and are very loyal to the show. They come back year after year."

Class winners of the Ayrshire Show won a blue heavy-duty material briefcase. Full results follow:

We Salute Our Farming Industry

Bachman Selected For PLA's Hall Of Fame

species. The Pennsylvania Swine Breeders Cooperative honored him in 1993 with its Distinguished Service Award for his many years of support to the Pennsylvania swine industry.

The auctioneer has run a full-time auction service since July 1, 1978, with livestock and dairy auctions an important part of his business. The business has expanded into other states.

Bachman has sold livestock in more than 12 states. This past year he managed and sold 92 auctions of a wide variety.

Bachman said that he really enjoys providing his services to the area 4-H and FFA livestock sales. He noted he is doing 14 youth sales every year. His efforts have not gone unnoticed by the participants. He has been honored by many of the 4-H and FFA chapters for his support of their auctions. The recognitions include the Eastern Lebanon High School FFA Service Award; the 4-H Service Award from Lebanon, York, and Schuylkill counties; and honorary memberships in the Penn State Block and Bridle Club and the York County 4-H Livestock Club.

Born and raised on a farm outside Quentin, Bachman has been a lifelong resident of Lebanon County. A graduate of Cornwall High School Class of 1964, he participated in FFA during his school years and served as his chapter's president and treasurer, plus one of its representative to the state FFA convention. He was the recipient of the ACE Award at graduation. He honed his auctioneering skills at the Reisch School of Auctioneering in Mason City, Iowa.

An active member of the Pennsylvania Angus Association, Bachman is serving as president for the ninth consecutive year. He has been the manager of the Atlantic National ROV Angus Show for the past eight years. The 2001 show was dedicated to the Bachman family for their continued support of the event.

Bachman is serving his second term on the Farm Show Commission, having been appointed by Gov. Tom Ridge. Bachman is vice president of the Lebanon Valley Exposition Corporation, the governing body of the Lebanon Area Fairgrounds, and has been a board member for more than 20 years. He has been treasurer of the Lebanon Area Fair for more than 15 years.

Other activities included are the Pennsylvania and National Auctioneers associations, the Berks County/Southeast Cattlemen's Association, the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association, the Lebanon County Farm Bureau, the Lebanon County Pennsylvania, and National Holstein associations, and local and state Masonic organizations. He is also a life member of the Dairy Shrine Club and the Lebanon County Historical Society.

Bachman has been married for more than 35 years to his wife, the former Sandra L. Granger, and they have three daughters and three grandchildren. Included in traveling, which they enjoy, is visiting a state fair every year.

First Time's The Charm For Wilson, Dean

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

WEST LAMPETER (Lancaster Co.) — Carcass value was the defining factor in picking a champion, according to West Lampeter Beef Show judge Greg Krueger.

In addition to meat value, "I'm a stickler for structure and correctness in feet in legs — I guess that's my production background," said Krueger, who said he was looking for steers that would perform in a feedlot environment.

The two champions of the show, in the 4-H and FFA divisions, were Tiffany Dean and Eric Wilson, respectively — both new to the beef show ring.

In 4-H competition, Tiffany Dean, 15, Strasburg, won 4-H champion honors with "Scar."

She is the daughter of Gary and Joan Dean. Although she exhibits sheep and hogs, this is her first year showing steers.

She sold her steer at West Lampeter's Friday evening sale.

Another purebred Angus, which she already has at home, will go to the Farm Show. She bought "Scar" in January from an Angus producer in Kirkwood.

Eric Wilson, 15, a sophomore at Penn Manor High School, took home champion FFA honors with his 1,432-pound Hereford. He is the son of Bill and Kim Wilson. Eric has two younger brothers who he hopes will also enter the show ring, he said.

Since he does not live on a farm, Eric houses his Hereford, "Willy," on a neighbor's farm. He got the Hereford the end of October from a Hereford farm in Lancaster. Horses and chickens, however, do reside at his home.

In addition to showing cattle, Eric also exhibited two lambs at the fair. Although it is his second year showing sheep, which he exhibited at Solanco Fair, it is his first year showing a steer.

This win has given Eric an excitement for beef ring action, which he plans to return to next year.

Judge Greg Krueger, Coatesville, has a 75 Angus cow-calf operation. The family-operated farm not only sells show heifers all over the country but also markets many of their bulls out West.

Krueger grew up on an Angus farm and graduated with a B.S. and Master's degree from Perdue, where he judged on the college team. After graduation he went into partnership in a genetics company.

Krueger has since split from the business and works completely with his family on his own Angus herd. In addition he judges different breeds and many levels of competition from local to national, in areas from Toronto to Nevada. He judges approximately 10 shows per year.

A Dry Cow Booster That Costs 7¢ a Day

Hoffmans Horse and Cattle Powder is an ideal tonic for cows over freshening. Feed 6 wks. before freshening. 1 Tablespoon a day. (Two weeks over freshening, feed 1 Tablespoon in the morning & 1 Tablespoon in evening)

Cows will clean better after freshening. Cows have a lower somatic cell count and will have less mastitus problems. Great for reproduction tract and cows will cycle better after freshening. Will help rumen function over freshing. Less feet problems and less stress.

This is an over-all good booster if fed to dry cows, and it will pay you big dividends.

Presented annually by the association, the award is its highest acknowledgment of lifetime achievement in agribusiness.

Hershey has dedicated his life to the development of the poultry industry in Pennsylvania. Born in Lancaster County in 1936, he went to work on a crop and turkey farm in Washington Boro when he was 16. At the age of 19, an eastern states feed representative and poultry farmer hired him to farm and tend his layer flock near Millersville.

In 1957, 21 years old and recently married, Hershey moved to his own Manor Township farm to tend to layer chickens and to get a start in the egg production business.

After many years of tending to his own layer and egg business, Hershey began to service and install equipment for other layer and broiler farms. He formed Hershey Equipment Company in 1964.

In 1973, Hershey Equipment Co. became the Big Dutchman distributor for the Mid-Atlantic region and, by 1977, it was the leader in Big Dutchman poultry equipment sales and service worldwide.

Hershey's company now employs more than 100 persons full time and contracts an additional 100 individuals that design and build operations for the largest egg, feed and grain producers nationwide. They are recognized in the poultry industry across the country for providing quality products and professional installation services.

Dr. Leach Honored For Poultry Research

Dr. Roland M. Leach, Jr., Penn State professor of poultry science, received the 2001 Distinguished Award for Non-Industry Accomplishments from PennAg Industries for his achievements that have benefited agribusiness.

Leach has an outstanding record of research accomplishments in poultry science spanning more than four decades. It all started for him at the age of seven when his grandfather, whose trade was farming, gave him a few chickens to start his own egg business.

Years later, while studying for his PhD. at Cornell University, Dr. Leach was captivated by the fact that minute quantities of trace elements could have major impacts on skeletal metabolism. This fascination has shaped his career.

Dr. Leach is a worldwide leader in the field of trace element metabolism. He is most widely recognized for having identified, characterized and named a major skeletal disease of poultry know an tibial dyschondroplasia(TD).

TD costs the poultry industry million of dollars annually and Dr. Leach's research has provided valuable information on the functional changes that accompany a number of connective tissue and skeletal disorders.

Leach's findings have transcended species and are of tremendous relevance to both poultry and human diseases, such as arthritis and osteoporosis. He is one of the most highly respected scientists in his field and has gained worldwide recognition.

Adams Receives PennAg Past Presidents Award

Jim Adams, vice president and chief operating officer of Wenger Feeds, located in Rheems, received the 2001 Past Presidents Award from PennAg Industries for his time and devotion spent over the past year for the advancement of the association.

Adams' dedication as president has resulted in many accomplishments over the last year. A successful merger of the former PennAg Coalition with PennAg took place. Adams saw this as a positive move that strengthened a legislative voice and blended the best of the two groups. Also, the PennAg web site, a new service in 2001, continued to expand its usefulness to PennAg members, governmental personnel and the general public.

Pennsylvania agriculture is reaching global markets now more than ever before. Adams sees Pennsylvania agriculture's position in the global marketplace as one of the key factors of future success.

Adams will go on to become a member of PennAg's Past Presidents Council. Dennis Mullane, Taylor By-Products, Inc. located in Wyalusing, is the incoming PennAg president for 2002.

Free Farm Seminar

tesy Lancaster Farming.

"The seminar is our way of thanking readership for more than 46 years of support, and a chance to gain knowledge of the latest information in transitioning the farm and farm product marketing," said Andy Andrews, editor of the newspaper.

But, Andrews acknowledged, those who wish to attend need to sign up so arrangements can be made for seating and lunch. Use the form or call Karen Hoffer, (717) 721-4416.

"More than ever, farmers must begin to more fully market their farm products to stay alive," Andrews said. "And more importantly, they must consider strategies to help turn the operations and ownership of the farm over to their children."

For this reason, according to Andrews, it is imperative to "educate the older, transitioning farmer, as well as the young farmer to some of the benefits of estate planning. Along with this, farm operators must understand the marketplace and what the future of farming, and product marketing, will mean."

Scheduled speakers are Dr. John Lord, a respected and widely known product marketing expert from St. Joseph's University in Philadelphia. Lord spoke at the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland's Conference at Grantville in March 2000 and again at a Berks County Ag Survival conference January this year. He's professor of food marketing at the university.

Another speaker who can provide methods to help transition the farm is Elizabeth Brown, a farm accountant from Shippensburg, who spoke at several producer and industry banquets. She's an expert at practical family farm financial planning with a focus on small farms.

Scheduled is Brad Hilty, Penn State Dairy Alliance, with an expertise in dairy management and marketing. He will provide his views into the realities of dairy farming and product positioning in the New Economy.

Another speaker noted for her expertise on transitioning family businesses is Dr. Cindy Iannarelli, Bridgeville, who operates a consultant company, "Business Cents." "Dr. Cindy," as she is known, spoke at the Mid-Atlantic Fruit and Vegetable Convention at Hershey in February. Her presentation focused on steps families can take now to ensure smooth business transition.

Seating is limited to 400, and the seminar will be no cost to those who sign up. Use the enclosed sign-up form on page 1 and mail in by Oct. 29. Families will be notified by mail only — no names will appear in the newspaper.

For more information, contact Karen Hoffer at (717) 721-4416.

WANT MORE MILK?

As Cover Crop, Green Spirit Ryegrass Yields High Quality Forage

GREEN SPIRIT has higher quality than rye, triticale or wheat if cut before boot stage. Is actually a better feed than alfalfa. Has more digestible fiber and sugars. Does not head out until approximately May 12.

Tired of the way rye heads out and loses its quality so fast in spring? Would you like to have a rye that becomes denser and leafier after cutting/grazing instead of becoming stemmy? Try Green Spirit Italian Ryegrass blend, from King's AgriSeeds.

Also works great no-tilled into Alfalfa fields in fall for very high quality balage or hay next spring. Does not head out till approx. two weeks later than orchardgrass with much higher quality.

If well fertilized you can get 2 good cuttings of Green Spirit and still put late corn in next spring.

NEED GOOD SILAGE CORN?
We have highly digestible corn silage varieties with good standability from Baldridge and Masters Choice.
Our customers tell us their cows really go for this silage and milk better on it. Has high fiber digestibility, soft kernels and high sugars. We are getting reports of very good yields even in this year's conditions.

Firestone FARM TIRES
THE LEADER IN THE FIELD

For 30 years, Lancaster County Farm Women Society 26 grilled burgers and hot dogs and served whoopee pies and beverages to Manheim Farm Show visitors. In a bittersweet decision, members decided it's time to sell out after this year's show, from Oct. 8-12. Lancaster County Farm Women Society 26 To Bid Farewell To Manheim Farm Show

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Life is in transition for Lancaster County Farm Women Society 26. After 30 years of grilling burgers and hot dogs at the Manheim Farm Show, members have decided to sell their food stand.

The decision wasn't easy, but members are getting older and running out of energy some conceded.

They won't miss the greasy cleaning up at 10:30 Friday night, but they will miss the camaraderie and the opportunity to give the profits to people and organizations in need.

"It was one of the best things our group ever did. Working together at the stand united us. We had lots of fun," said member Lois Brubaker.

Her sentiments were echoed by the other members who reminisced about the long hours spent serving food in all kinds of weather.

"People are lined up 20 deep six feet across," said Joan Hershey of the long lines that form during busy evenings. "You don't look at the people. You just fry."

"Don't even ask us what our hair looked like after working at the grill for hours," another member said.

"We each had our own job to do. Some liked to serve the customers, and some of us liked to fry. You didn't want to change positions, because if you were frying, you got so greasy that you didn't want anyone to see you," Lois said.

In 30 years at the farm show, the society weathered many changes. When they first purchased the take-apart stand, the Manheim Farm Show was only a three-day event, but that soon extended to five days. Nineteen years ago, members' husbands built a new stand on wheels, which has been remodeled and extended several times since then.

Prices, too, reflect a significant change. In the beginning, hot dogs sold for 25 cents, hamburgers for 35 cents, and whoopee pies for 8 cents each.

In recent years, burgers are 100 percent ground beef, but for many years, the recipe for beef burgers was a mixture of two gallons ketchup, 25 pounds bread crumbs, 14 dozen eggs, and 275 pounds ground beef.

In addition to selling beverages and ice cream, each of the 26 members of the society also donated three dozen whoopee pies. The profits from the whoopee pies were used for special causes as the local Head Start program.

One of the society's main thrusts has been fundraising to give to community needs. In fact, the Society purchased the stand in 1971 to raise funds to give to those in need.

"We were tired of selling cases of vanilla," a member said of the group's former fundraising project.

"You mean buying cases of vanilla," another member corrected her.

Members laughed wholeheartedly as they recalled how they purchased most of the vanilla that had been intended as a fundraising project.

The food stand provided a great source of income. Judy Esbenshade, president of the society, estimates that it enabled them to donate between $2,000-$3,000 annually to people and organizations in need.

In addition, one-third of the stand's profits were returned to Farm Show coffers to help fund costs associated with the annual event.

Despite the unpredictability of weather that greatly influences the crowds attending the Farm Show, the group noted that they always made a profit.

Members recall weather that ranged from freezing to stifling hot during farm show week. One year it even snowed, but members learned to dress for the occasion. "If you were working at the grill, you stayed hot but your feet might freeze," one member said.

Only twice in its 30-year history was the stand closed down, and that was only for a half a day each time.

"Our president Dottie Sipling passed away, and we closed the stand to attend her memorial service," Judy said.

Another time, hurricane winds forced them to close down.

Farm Women of Pennsylvania was founded in 1914. Its purpose was to contribute to the power and influence of farm life, to develop leadership skills, and to take an active role in community affairs. From the original group that started in Somerset County, multiple groups sprang up across the state with about a 6,000 membership at one time, and many prospective members were placed on waiting lists.

Society 26 was formed 35 years ago when Ruby Esbenshade, the society's first president moved from Delaware to the Manheim area. Ruby wanted to meet other farm wives in the area. And many were eager to join.

"We did it as an outlet. It was our main social event," Sara Zeiset said of the era when few wives had outside jobs and children's lives revolved around the farm, rather than sports and school activities.

Members mark joining the society by simultaneous events in their personal lives.

One member said, "My husband changed a baby diaper for the first time when I went to my first Farm Women's meeting."

Members enthusiasm for the monthly meetings spread. Sara Zeiset recalled that when she moved into the area, a neighbor told her that she must join Farm Women.

"It was the best thing I ever did," Sara said.

Throughout the years, members gathered monthly in each others home for social, educational, and service events. They were so dedicated to the needs of the society that when Farm Show rolled around, they changed schedules to volunteer at the stand for at least two to three eight hour shifts. Even their husbands got into the act by helping wash dishes, set up, tear down, and remodel the stand. Members who had jobs outside the home are reported to have scheduled vacations so they could volunteer at the food stand.

When the stand began running low on supplies, members scrambled to refurnish the food by making fast trips to supermarkets. That meant losing a nearby parking space and having to lug additional supplies for blocks. After 30 years, members said they learned to be satisfied and not think they had to be the last food stand to close.

Careful records were kept. In the beginning years, any leftovers were divided among members who often had several children at home. Today, few members have children at home, so occasional leftovers are given to places such as the Water Street Rescue Mission.

"We know the trick for frying good burgers," a member volunteered. But others quickly silenced her.

"We aren't telling the secret, except maybe to the people who purchase the stand," a consensus of members maintained.

But they all agree that next year, they are sure they will feel sad when Farm Show rolls around. "Maybe we will volunteer to work for the people that buy our stand," a member said.

Farm Show rules require that the stand be sold to a local nonprofit group. The prime space the Farm Women maintained from year to year will need to be forfeited to one of the people on a waiting list.

For more information about the stand, call Judy Esbenshade, (717) 665-3168 or Nancy Buckwalter at (717) 569-9526.

Well Preserved

The Well Preserved news column is prepared by Lancaster County Cooperative Extension. It includes food preservation information and questions received in the office.

Drying Herbs

We have been enjoying fresh herbs over the summer. The parsley and mint and tarragon have added tasty flavors to our food.

Now is the time to dry your favorite herbs so that you can enjoy your favorites this winter. For the best flavor, use scissors to gather leaves and stems on a sunny morning just after the dew has evaporated and before the heat of the sun has dissipated the flavoring oils.

Leaves of herbs should be harvested just before the plant begins to flower. Preparation for drying herbs includes rinsing the leaves and stems with cold water, either by submerging or holding under running water; shake off the excess water. Cut off any dead or discolored leaves or stems.

There are several ways to preserve herbs:

• Room Drying: Cover an old window screen with cheesecloth. Place a layer of herbs on the cheesecloth and cover with another thin layer of cheesecloth to keep off the dust and insects. Place the tray in a clean warm location with props underneath the corners of the screen to allow air to circulate. Turn the herbs over every day or two so they will dry evenly.

• Oven Drying: It is very difficult to adjust the oven temperature to below 100 degrees Fahrenheit which is best for drying. Cover the oven racks with cheesecloth and proceed the same as if you were room drying. Prop the oven door open slightly to let the moisture escape.

• Microwave Oven: This a good method to use for small quantities of herbs. Place 4 or 5 stalks with leaves between paper towels. Set the microwave timer for 2 to 3 minutes on a medium high power. Check to see if the stems and leaves are sufficiently dry. If not, reset the time for an additional 30 seconds and check again. Repeat this process as often as necessary to dry the herbs.

CAUTION must be taken when drying in the microwave. If leaves are overdried, they will burn and so will the paper towel. Read the manufacture's directions for your oven.

• Dehydrator: This method produces high quality dried herbs because it takes only 2 to 3 hours and has a controlled temperature with good air circulation. Set the thermostat of the dehydrator at 90-100 degrees. Do not dry herbs with other moist foods. The most difficult and most important part of drying herbs is making sure that the herbs are dry. Brittle stems that break and seeds that fall from the chaff are indicators of dryness. Seeds should be brittle. If insufficiently dry, herbs will mold in storage.

Some herbs can be frozen for future use. Parsley, chives and dill freeze very well. Simply rinse and pat dry then chop and freeze. Dill weed and dill heads can be frozen. Overwrap plastic bags containing herbs with aluminum foil or freeze in glass jars. The flavor of some herbs migrates through plastic and can flavor it's neighbor in the freezer. Green onions chopped with tops, freeze very well. If you're tired of finding shriveled cloves of garlic in the cupboard or having the refrigerator smell garlicky, try freezing the whole bulb of garlic. Put it in a little glass jar to seal in the odors. Did you know that garlic flavor becomes more intense as the cloves of garlic are either chopped or crushed. One whole clove of garlic produces a milder flavor than a half of one chopped up. To really control the intensity, you can skewer the clove of garlic with a wooden tooth pick (to make it easier to find later) and then retrieve it from the soup or sauce when the flavor is intense enough.

When using dried herbs, remember that they are usually 3 or 4 times stronger than their fresh counterparts because they have been concentrated. If the recipe calls for a fresh herb, you can usually ⅓ to ¼ as much of the dried. However, through storage the strength of herbs deteriorates.

The safest way to use dried herbs is to start with a small amount, taste, and add more if the flavor isn't quite strong enough. Here are some ideas for using dried herbs: A mixture called fine herbs uses equal parts of chives, chervil, tarragon or rosemary and parsley.

Fine herbs is used to season meats, casseroles, fish, salads or egg dishes. A bouquet garni is made up of thyme, bay leaf, parsley, and celery leaves tied in a cheesecloth bag or tied in a coffee filter. It is used to season stock, soups, or stews. An easy way to add extra spark to a meal is by making a flavored butter to add to vegetables or top hot rolls or toasted Italian Bread. Cream butter or margarine, then beat in herbs or flavoring. Extras can be packaged in small cups or "foil bricks" to freeze for later use.

Apples Are Great For Snackin'

Try these delicious snack ideas.

• Spread peanut butter on apple slices with a Popsicle stick.

• Make a cheesy smile by melting a piece of cheese on an apple slice.

• Freeze applesauce, then whip it up in the blender for an apple "slushie."

• Dip apple slices in caramel for a sweet treat.

• Applesauce makes a great topping. Spoon it over hot oatmeal, ice cream, frozen yogurt, or mix in granola for a sweet crunch.

• Try adding sliced apples instead of jelly on a peanut butter or grilled cheese sandwich.

• Dip apple halves into dry flavored gelatin.

• Mix chopped apples and peanut butter. Spread on celery sticks.

• Top ready to serve cold or hot cereal with thin apple slices. Add sugar and milk as usual.

• Core an apple, fill it with raisins and other dried fruit, and cook in the microwave or bake.

• Team up sliced apples with low fat cheese and crackers.

• Make "apple-pops" by freezing apple juice in small paper cups with Popsicle sticks inserted. Spray the cups lightly with a vegetable oil spray and the cup will peel away.

Apple Fun Facts

• Apples contain no fat, no cholesterol, no sodium, and have only 80 calories.

• Apples are an excellent source of fiber.

• Apples contain Boron, a mineral that helps children's bodies use calcium and keeps brain function active and alert.

• There are 2,500 varieties of apples grown in the U.S.

• Pennsylvania grows approximately 11 million bushels of apples each year.

• October is National Apple Month.

• Cut an apple in half (across the center) and you will find a hidden star.

• Eating a fresh apple will cleanse your mouth of more than 95 percent of bacteria that cause tooth decay.

Preventing Behavior Problems

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — "Secrets for Preventing Problem Behaviors" is the title of the workshop being presented by Penn State Cooperative Extension. All child care providers and interested parents can participate in the workshop at 6:45 p.m.-9 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 11, at PSU Capital Campus in Middletown.

Jane Landis, Penn State Cooperative Extension family living agent in Dauphin County, said "Many behavior problems of young children can be prevented. Child care providers will learn what to do to prevent problem behaviors whether in a home or center care program. Parents also will find this workshop helpful."

According to Landis, those who come to the workshop will see and hear about how to prevent and deal with biting, fighting, temper tantrums, hitting, not sharing, and even crying. The workshop is part of a statewide Better Kid Care child care provider training program presented by Penn State Cooperative Extension and partially funded by the Pennsylvania of Public Welfare, and the Pennsylvania Child Care/Early Childhood Development Training System.

Child care providers can receive two DPW training credits for participating in the workshop. Continuing Education Credits (CEU's) are also available.

For more information on the program, support materials and other services, call Jane Landis or Tamie Herb at (717) 921-8803. Visit the Better Kid Care Website at www.betterkidcare.psu.edu.

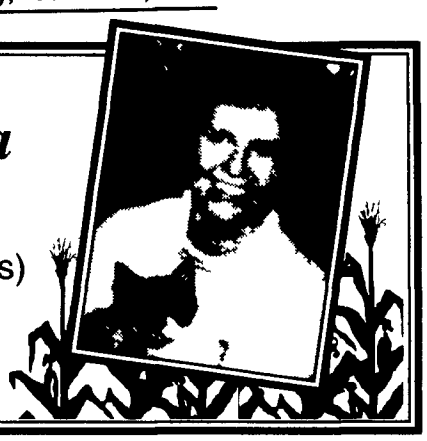
On Being a Farm Wife

(and other hazards)

Joyce Bupp



Every household has some of them.

Some households (like ours) have too many of them.

Collections.

Now, some collections are pretty much an obligation for running a household. Like collections of eating utensils, which some folks have beautifully matched, while others of us lean more toward mix-n-match of whatever didn't get broken over the years. Well-applianced households also probably have wonderful, matched collections of cooking gear to service the eating utensils, all sorts of shiny pots and pans in a variety of sizes for multiple uses. Some of the rest of us have mix-n-match there, too.

Other domestics collections are less mandatory, but manage to accumulate nevertheless.

Our "to read" collection grows endlessly, multiplying stacks of publications chock-full of fascinating and informative material, sometimes obsolete before it gets read. Or pitched, in the occasional paper-weed-out frenzy I sweep through the house when the piles threaten to overtake our living space.

Some collections we deal with, not by choice, but by default. Like the collection of farm hats which turn up in endless nooks and crannies, from the basement to the closets to under the living room coffee table with the snoozing dog. I hang them up, put them away, soak them, wash them, reshape them — and under extreme conditions, secretly transfer them to another collection. Trash.

A pair of upstairs bedrooms have housed for many years collections which I have simply ignored for awhile. These collections came about in the very normal accumulating phases of children, who then grow up, change interests and abandon them over the years. One recent day, spurred into action by tripping for the umpteenth time over a childhood bed in which no one has slept for a couple of years, my aggressor mode kicked in over the collection of collections.

Drawers full of no-fit, no-want, no-wear, no-need clothing went into bags for donation to a local thrift shop. Miscellaneous school notes, reports and old 4-H project data were added to the paper stack for recycling into heifer pen bedding. College textbooks, worth their weight in gold at purchase but promptly outdated and virtually useless, will head for the collections of unwanteds set out weekly by the side of the road.

Gift and holiday items accumulated there simply because it was a "spare" room were organized into more easily located sites for retrieval at some future time of need. Likewise for an assortment of tissue paper, gift wrap and gift boxes.

But numerous other collections were gathered together into a more massive collection and tucked into large, plastic bags. A collection of fabric squares, which had been lovingly sewn together and knotted years ago into a quilt, really needed to move on to its creator. Scrapbooks containing collections of photographs of earlier days, younger versions of family and friends, pets and 4-H calves of childhood years. More scrapbooks containing postcards representing places we and acquaintances had visited. And, still more scrapbooks containing an assortment of colorful and interesting stamps from a teen-age hobby.

Later that evening, the younger generations from across the meadow arrived for a quick visit. Seizing a golden opportunity, I presented the collections to our favorite little folks, thus gaining a little storage space. Which is being promptly filled with collections of office supplies, off-season clothing, and tax records.

In a "one man's trash is another man's treasure" turn of events, the donations were eagerly embraced by a 6-year-old who decided the transfer of his mom's collections to his residence was one of the highlights of his week.

Somewhere in the genetic makeup of this family, there surely must be some chromosome labeled "pack rat." That tendency will enable us to keep going in our line of family descendancy all that stuff of heritage, history and culture, not necessary to us, but too valuable to lose forever. And so we pass to the grandkids bits and pieces of our particular DNA.

You know...DNA.

All the stuff we Don't Need Anymore.

ADA/DC Conducts Ice Cream Freeze Event

PHILADELPHIA — Philadelphia-area residents sampled ice cream and dairy-based smoothies and learned about dairy farming at the annual "Sidewalk Sizzle and Ice Cream Freeze" at the Reading Terminal Market in Philadelphia recently.

The event, sponsored by Bassetts Ice Cream and other market vendors, has been conducted annually for more than 10 years to celebrate National Ice Cream Month.

The American Dairy Association/Dairy Council Middle Atlantic joined the celebration this year by sponsoring an exhibit booth and teaming up with Philadelphia chefs, who added their own twists to smoothie recipes. Samples of the dairy-based beverages were handed out, along with ice cream promotional materials.

While the crowd enjoyed their smoothies, they also learned about the dairy farming at ADA/DC Middle Atlantic's exhibit booth. The booth, featuring photographs and information about the dairy industry, was designed to present positive messages about dairy farmers and their farm operations.

"We want to educate consumers about dairy farmers and the dairy industry in general," said Alexa Stoner, industry relations specialist for ADA/DC Middle Atlantic. "Events like this help us reach many consumers at one time."

While visiting ADA/DC's booth, adults and kids alike tested knowledge about dairy farming by taking a short quiz designed to teach basic information about the dairy industry. The quiz included questions on topics such as milk temperature and animal welfare.

"It's always a privilege to talk directly with consumers about our industry and our products," Stoner said. "We have a great story to tell and these type of dairy promotion checkoff programs are working to increase dairy product demand."

The American Dairy Association/Dairy Council Middle Atlantic is a regional milk promotion organization funded by dairy farmers to increase dairy product demand in the Middle Atlantic region through advertising, communications and nutrition education programs.

Here is a recipe for Blueberry Cajeta, one of the milk-based smoothies served at the "Sidewalk Sizzle and Ice Cream Freeze."

Blueberry Cajeta
(Mexican Smoothie)

1 pint blueberries
2 cups milk
2 cups plain yogurt
½ cup sugar
Crushed ice
Fresh mint

Place washed blueberries, milk and yogurt in blender. Blend for 5 seconds. In heavy bottom pan, warm sugar over low heat and stir until melted and light golden brown in color. Slowly add caramelized sugar syrup to blueberry mixture in blender and blend for 5 seconds. Add crushed ice and blend for 10 seconds. Serve in tall glasses and garnish with mint. Makes 2 servings.

It is fun when grandchildren come to visit, or if you regularly lend a hand with their care, but as you know, the care and feeding of grandchildren is also a major responsibility.

Many of the feeding practices you probably used with your own children are no longer advocated for today's infants and toddlers. So let's take a look at FDA recommended food safety implications of feeding that special new person in your life.

Keep it Clean

- Always begin formula and food preparation by washing your hands.
- If making homemade baby food, use a brush to clean areas around the blender blades of food processor parts. Old food particles can harbor harmful bacteria that may contaminate other foods.
- Use detergent and hot water to wash and rinse all utensils (including can opener) that come in contact with baby's foods.

Handle Baby's Food Safely

- Harmful bacteria from a baby's mouth can be introduced into food or bottles where it can grow and multiply even after refrigeration and reheating. If the baby does not finish a bottle, do not put it back in the refrigerator for another time. Likewise, do not feed a baby from a jar of baby food and put it back in the refrigerator for another time. Saliva on the spoon contaminates the remaining food.
- If using commercial baby food, check to see if the safety button on the lid is down. If the jar lid doesn't "pop" when opened, do not use. Discard jars with chipped glass or rusty lids.
- Follow the manufacturer's recommendations for preparing bottles before filling with formula or milk.

Store Food Safely

- Observe "use by" dates on formula cans.
- To freeze homemade baby food put the mixture in an ice cube tray. Cover with heavy-duty plastic wrap until the food is frozen. Pop food cubes into a freezer bag or airtight container and date it. Store up to three months. One cube equals one serving.

Keep Food At Safe Temperatures

- Perishable items like milk, formula or food left out of the refrigerator or without a cold source for more than two hours should not be used.
- When traveling with a baby, transport bottles and food in an insulated cooler. Place the ice chest in the passenger compartment of the car; it's cooler than the trunk. Use frozen gel packs, or bags of ice to keep food or bottles cold on long outings. Do not keep bottles or food in the same bag with dirty diapers.

Avoid Serving Certain Foods

- Do not feed honey to children less than a year old. It can contain the botulinum organism that could cause illness or death.
- Raw or unpasteurized milk should not be served to infants and children.
- Heat processed meat and poultry (hot dogs, deli meats, and cold cuts) to steaming. Occasionally these foods are contaminated with Listeria monocytogenes bacteria that can cause serious illness among those whose immune systems are vulnerable. High temperatures kill the bacteria. After heating, the food can be refrigerated and served chilled at a later time.

Remember too that these food safety guidelines also apply to day care or childcare establishments.

Hot Dog Recipe Contest Seeks New Ways To Serve One Of America's Favorite Foods

It's difficult to notice Grillmore Berks when he walks into a room. At seven-feet tall, this lovable mascot of the Berks Packing Company has been making personal appearances in the tri-state area to celebrate National Hot Dog Month, and through the fall months visiting regional baseball and amusement parks, supermarkets, charity events and parades. It's all in a day's work promoting one of America's favorite foods — and how many different ways it can be served.

One event Grillmore is definitely looking forward to is escorting the grand prize winner of the first annual Grillmore Berks' Hot Dog Recipe Contest on a $250 Grocery Shopping Spree...in a chauffeured stretch limo. The competition celebrates the wonderful versatility of hot dogs — as a classic frank on a bun smothered with favorite condiments, as savory hors d'oeuvres for picnics and parties, as an ingredient in hundreds of plain and fancy entrees, casseroles and side dishes.

"Hot dogs are thoroughly American in their diversity," states Berks vice president of marketing Jim Boylan. "You'll find differences in how a hot dog is made (from traditional beef and pork blends to all-beef, poultry, low fat and spicy mixes), and you certainly find regional differences in how they are served.The contest features three categories — Grilled Summer Sizzlers (for the grill), Year-Round Party Favorites (finger foods and party hors d'oeuvres), and Entrees and Casseroles — and one basic rule that every recipe submitted must use beef or beef/pork hot dogs as an ingredient. Deadline for entry is Dec. 31 and the winners will be announced in February 2002.

For more information about Berks, call (800) 882-3537, or visit Berks on the web at www.berksfood.com.

An official entry form for the first annual Grillmore Berks' Hot Dog Recipe Contest is available on the Website.

Here are a few recipes to get you thinking about the competition.

Frankly Delicious Kabobs

4 beef or grill franks, thickly sliced
1 cup broccoli florettes
1 cup fresh or canned pineapple chunks
8 cherry tomatoes
⅛ teaspoon ground ginger
1 tablespoon soy sauce
¼ cup honey

Thread franks onto each of 8 skewers with broccoli, pineapple, and tomatoes (other fresh garden vegetables may be substituted as they come into season).

Stir ginger and soy into warmed honey.

Brush over kabobs during grilling. Yields 4 servings.

Cheesy Hot Dog Totes

½ pound beef or grill franks, cubed
½ pound sharp cheddar cheese, shredded
2-ounce jar stuffed green olives, chopped
½ cup frozen diced onions
½ cup chili sauce
1 teaspoon mustard
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
4 pita rounds
Heavy duty aluminum foil

Cut hot dogs into fourths, lengthwise, then slice into ¼-inch cubes. Combine with olives, eggs, mustard, mayonnaise, chili sauce and cheese, mixing well.

Cut pita rounds in half. Open pocket and fill with approximately ⅓ cup filling (be generous). Wrap individually in aluminum foil and refrigerate.

When grill is hot, place foil-wrapped sandwiches on grill and heat for 10 minutes. Uncover and continue heating until bread is crips and filling is hot, about 10 to 15 minutes more, depending on desired crispness. Yields 4 servings.

National Eat-Dinner-Together Week Promotes Pork

The National Pork Board encourages families to spend time together, talking and eating pork regularly and particularly during the sixth annual National-Eat-Dinner-Together Week, Oct. 7-13.

"The focus on family is one reason that pork producers picked Joan Lunden as this year's spokesperson," said Steve Schmeichel, a pork producer from Hurley, S.D., and chairman of the National Pork Board's Demand Enhancement committee.

"Reaching consumers is important for pork producers, who use their pork checkoff investments to fund promotions. The more consumers hear about pork, the more likely they are to buy it, which pulls product through the pipeline."

"We want them to know that pork plays a key role in a healthy diet because it is an excellent source of important nutrients."

Lunden, a journalist, author and mother of three, will help raise awareness about the importance of mealtime as a forum for developing family connections. "Gathering together for a home-cooked meal shows family members that you care about them," says Lunden.

Lunden draws on the skills she learned as a journalist to move beyond ordinary conversations and spark meaningful discussions with her family at the dinner table.

"Start by doing your homework. Learn about the topics that interest your family members outside of work and school," she said.

"Ask questions that get their attention and require more than a yes or no answer. Allow each member to contribute to the conversation honestly and freely. There should never be a wrong answer."

The Pork Information Bureau has distributed public service announcements featuring Lunden and Dr. William J. Doherty, a professor and author who is one of the nation's leading experts in the field of family studies.

Also, a satellite media tour is planned for Oct. 9. It is anticipated that more than 22 television stations will participate as Joan Lunden fields questions about cooking up conversation around the dinner table.

To spark meal ideas and dinner-table discussions beyond "how was your day," the National Pork Board is offering the Cookin' Up Conversation brochure online or by mail. To see it on the Internet, visit www.porkboard.org, select the icon for otherwhitemeat.com and check the 'hot topics" area.

Many cuts of pork are naturally leaner, especially when trimmed of external fat. Select a lean pork cut such as center loin roast, tenderloin, center loin pork chops or fresh ham.

To receive the brochure via the mail, send a letter-size self-addressed stamped envelope to Cookin' Up Conversation, PO Box 9114, Des Moines, IA, 50306.

Here are some pork recipes to incorporate into your menu.

PORK VALENCIANA

1½ pounds boneless pork loin, cubed
2 tablespoons olive oil, divided
2 yellow onions, peeled and chopped
1 green pepper, seeded, chopped
2 cloves garlic, minced
8-ounce can whole tomatoes, undrained
½ teaspoon salt
1 bay leaf
¼ teaspoon pepper
4 cups water
2 cups uncooked rice
2 chicken bouillon cubes
⅛ teaspoon saffron threads
1 cup peas
1 small jar pimientos, drained
12 green olives

Brown pork in one tablespoon oil over medium-high heat; remove. Add onions, green pepper, garlic, and remaining 1 tablespoon oil. Continue cooking until slightly brown, about 5 minutes. Return pork to pan and stir in tomatoes, salt, bay leaf, and pepper. Add water, rice, and bouillon.

Dissolve saffron in small amount of water and add to pan. Bring to boil, cover and simmer over low heat 15 minutes. Remove bay leaf. Garnish with peas, pimientos, and olives.

Makes 8 servings.

BACKYARD BARBECUE SPARERIBS

4-5 pounds pork spareribs

Sauce:

1 cup catsup
Salt and pepper to taste
¼ cup Worcestershire sauce
1½ cups Dr. Pepper
¼ cup vinegar
2 teaspoons paprika
2 teaspoons chili powder
1 medium onion, finely chopped

Cut ribs into serving-size pieces and place on grill over grey-white coals. Slow cook 1-1¼ hours, turning often. Combine sauce ingredients in a saucepan and simmer 10-15 minutes. Brush ribs generously with sauce and continue to cook, about 30 minutes, basting and turning often. Makes 4 servings.

BAKED COUNTRY CURED HAM

10-14 pounds country-cured ham
Whole cloves
6 cups hot water
1 cup vinegar
1 cup cider
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 bay leaves
1 cup molasses

Remove rind or skin from ham without removing the delicate layer of fat. Gently wash the ham under running water. Pat dry and score fat into diamond shapes. Place a whole clove in each diamon. Insert a meat thermometer into a meaty part of the ham, being careful not to touch fat or bone.

Place the ham, fat side up, in a large roasting pan with a cover. Use heavy duty foil to make a cover, if necessary. Combine water, vinegar, cider and Worcestershire sauce and pour over ham. Place bay leaves in liquid. Bake at 325 degrees for 20 minutes per pound or to an internal temperature of 160 degrees. Baste often during cooking time with molasses. Bake uncovered last 30 minutes. Decorate with fruit if desired. Cool before slicing. Makes 20-25 servings.

STOVE TOP BARBECUE

4-6 pounds Boston Butt roast
2 tablespoons cooking oil

Sauce:

1½ cups water
8-ounces tomato sauce
¼ cup vinegar
¼ cup Worcestershire sauce
¼ cup brown sugar
Salt and pepper to taste
1 teaspoon celery seeds
1 teaspoon chili powder
Dash hot pepper sauce

Randomly pierce the surface of the roast with a sharp knife. In a Dutch oven, brown roast on all sides in hot oil. In a mixing bowl, combine sauce ingredients and mix well. Pour sauce over roast and bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer two hours or until pork is fork tender. Baste roast with sauce during cooking time. Slice or chop to serve. Makes 8-10 servings.

MOLASSES MUSTARD GLAZED HAM

3 pounds fully-cooked, smoked ham
½ cup molasses
½ cup prepared mustard

Place ham, fat side up, on a rack in a dutch oven. Cover and cook at 350 degrees for one hour. In small mixing bowl, combine molasses and mustard. Remove ham from oven and brush with molasses mixture. Return to oven and roast, uncovered, 30-45 minutes. Brush often with molasses-mustard mixture. Makes 8 servings.

October marks the anniversary of Columbus' discovery of America. In recognition of this famous Italian explorer, veal industry representatives have paired traditional Italian meals with veal and the newly-introduced Veal Month.

Per serving, veal leg cutlets make an economical choice for a family dinner. Pound the cutlets to ⅛th inch thickness, coat with the flour mixture and cook for 3-to-4 minutes. The lemon-caper sauce is made in the same skillet.

Serve this dish with your favorite pasta, a salad and a loaf of French bread to round out the offering.

"The veal leg cutlets can also be used in Veal Marsala and Veal Parmigiana — two classic, easy-to-fix meals," noted Paul Slayton, executive director of the Pennsylvania Beef Council.

"Whether you're utilizing veal in a traditional manner or putting a new twist on a dish, veal definitely compliments any taste."

VEAL PICCATA

1 pound veal leg cutlets, cut ⅛ to ¼ inch thick
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon paprika
⅛ teaspoon ground white pepper
1 tablespoon olive oil

Lemon-Caper

LEMON-CAPER SAUCE:

⅔ cup dry white wine
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
2 teaspoons drained capers
1 teaspoon butter

1. Pound veal cutlets to ⅛ inch thickness, if necessary. Combine flour, salt, paprika and white pepper. Lightly coat both sides of cutlets with flour mixture.

2. In large nonstick skillet, heat ½ of oil over medium heat until hot. Add ½ of cutlets; cook 3 to 4 minutes or until cooked through, turning once. Remove cutlets; keep warm. Repeat with remaining oil and cutlets.

3. Add wine and lemon juice to skillet; cook and stir until browned bits attached to skillet are dissolved and liquid thickens slightly. Remove from heat; stir in capers and butter. Spoon sauce over cutlets.

Makes 4 servings.

Southern Cove Pioneer Reunion Features Old-Time Farm Equipment

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

NEW ENTERPRISE (Bedford Co.) — The thousands of steam engine enthusiasts who attended this year's Southern Cove reunion were pleased to find a new location that was both larger and more comfortable. Weather included blue skies, warm sun, and cooling breezes

Tom Link, president of the association, said the group purchased 47 acres of ground last fall including two acres of wooded ground. The woods provide shade for picnic tables and exhibitors.

"I can't begin to tell you how much volunteer effort has gone into the success of getting the ground ready for this year's event," Link said.

"The wooded ground was cleaned up, time, labor, and materials were donated in building a road to the reunion site, a 28x36-foot building was erected. The building will be used for serving food and Link adds that the women connected with the organization worked ten-hour days preparing food.

"This year, for the first time, we roasted three pigs and made apple butter. We had more food stands and a larger variety of food and numerous flea markets."

A total of 226 antique tractors were a part of the event as well as both large and small steam run engines which could accomplish numerous tasks.

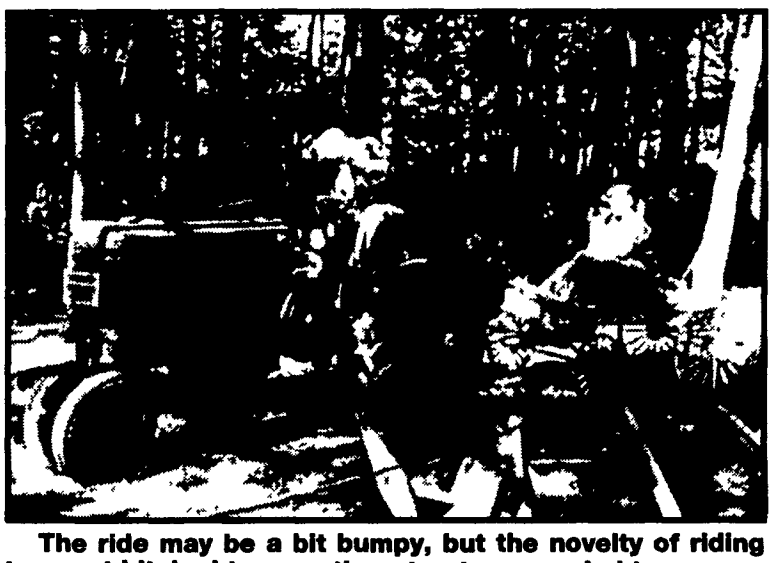
Oats, grown by the association, were threshed by a steam run engine and a steam run corn binder cut the corn grown on the property.

An auction held on Saturday, contributed to funds, which go to maintain the new property.

"Next spring, we will put the old tractors to work when we plow the ground," said Tom. That event is always held the same Saturday as fishing season begins.

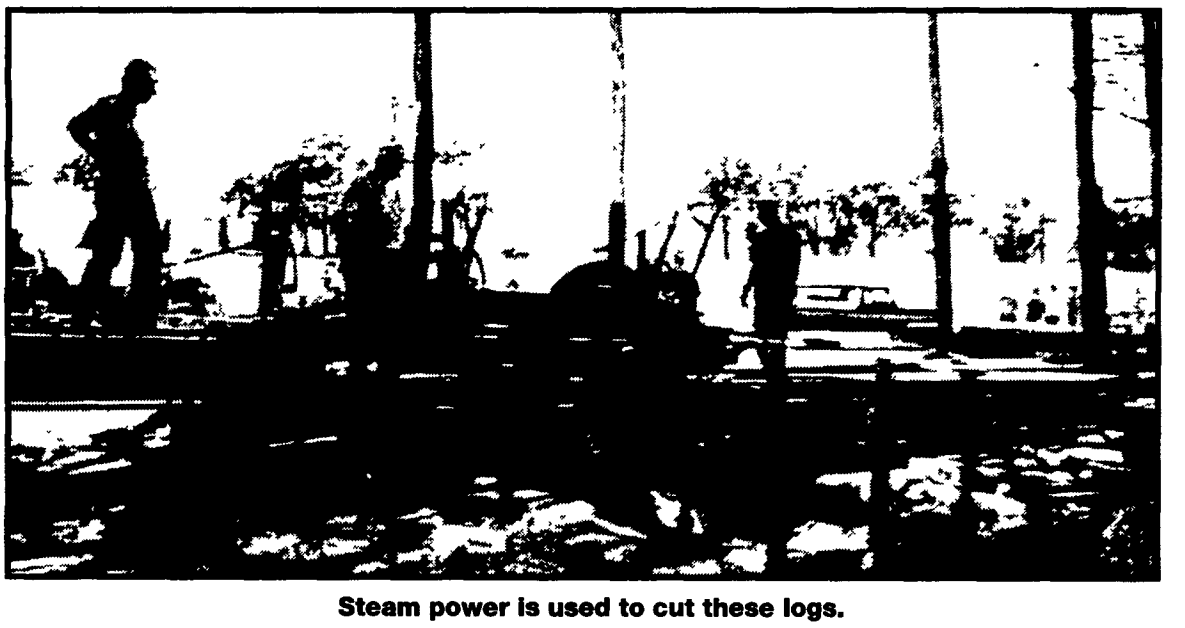
"Our long term goal is to have a permanent museum," Tom emphasizes.

Photos above and below show that both tractors and old-time farm equipment enthusiasts were numerous at the 11th annual Southern Cover Power Reunion.



The ride may be a bit bumpy, but the novelty of riding in a cart hitched to an antique tractor appealed to many.

A permanent museum is desired to showcase antique tractors and steam engines.



Steam power is used to cut these logs.

ANSWER — Kathy Gephart, Rebersburg, requested a soft chocolate chip cookie recipe that uses instant vanilla pudding in the batter. Thanks to Kathryn Marie Zook for sending her recipe.

Chocolate Chip Cookies

3 cups cooking oil
3 cups granulated sugar
3 cups brown sugar
8 eggs, beaten
4 teaspoons baking soda
4 teaspoons salt
4 teaspoons vanilla
4 teaspoons water
10 cups flour
2 cups chocolate chips
¾ cup instant vanilla pudding

Mix together oil and sugars. Add beaten eggs. Add flour, pudding mix, salt and baking soda. Add water and vanilla. Fold in chocolate chips. Makes approximately 12 dozen cookies. Bake 12 minutes or less at 375 degrees.

S. Jones, Herndon, sends this recipe for a smaller batch that she writes is very good.

Soft Chocolate Chip Cookies

2¼ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup butter
¼ cup granulated sugar
¾ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
3.5-ounce package instant vanilla pudding mix
12-ounce package chocolate chips

Combine butter, sugars, vanilla, and pudding mix in a bowl. Beat until smooth and creamy. Beat in eggs and vanilla. Gradually add dry ingredients. Stir in chocolate chips. Batter will be stiff. Drop on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake 8-10 minutes at 375 degrees.

ANSWER — Gloria Spangler, Thomasville, requested a complete recipe for Ice Cream Dessert that ran in the Aug. 11 issue of the paper. Thanks to Kathryn Zook; Hermie Potts, N.J., and others for sending recipes.

Ice Cream Dessert

1 chocolate cake mix
1 small box instant chocolate pudding
½ cup oil
1 cup water
4 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla
Peanut butter
½ gallon vanilla ice cream
Chocolate fudge ice cream topping
Whipped cream topping

Mix first six ingredients and put into two 9x13-inch cake pans. Bake at 350 degrees 15-20 minutes. Spread peanut butter on cake while it is still hot. Cool. About an hour before serving, spread ice cream on top of peanut butter layer and put into freezer. Remove cake from freezer five minutes before serving. Spread with fudge topping and whipped cream.

ANSWER Janice Wise, Womelsdorf, sent this recipe in answer to the request for recipes using garden produce.

Zucchini Quiche

6 cups zucchini, grated
2 cups onion
2 cups pancake or Bisquick batter
8 eggs
1 cup oil
1 cup cheese (any variety)
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups fresh raw corn (optional)
1 pound ground meat, fried

In a bowl, mix together all ingredients except zucchini. Add zucchini and pour into buttered 9x13-inch baking dish. Bake at 350 degrees for 40-50 minutes or until browned.

CORRECTIONS — In the September 15th issue, the recipe for Magic Fudge Cake should have read ½ cup chopped walnuts instead of milk. Also a correction is needed for Pasta Salad that appeared in the same issue. It should have read 2 cups salad dressing or mayonnaise instead of whipped cream.

ANSWER — J.T. Howdyshell, Bridgewater, Va., requested recipes to make attractive layered soup mixes in mason jars for gifts. Thanks to Nancy Wiker, Lancaster County extension, for sending these recipes.

Split Pea Tortellini Soup

⅔ cup dried cheese-filled tortellini
¼ cup snipped dried tomatoes
⅓ cup dried split green peas
½ cup dried chopped carrots
1 tablespoon instant chicken bouillon granules
1 tablespoon dried minced onion
1½ teaspoons dried basil, crushed
1½ teaspoons dried thyme, crushed
½ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ teaspoon ground pepper

Layer ingredients in a clean one-pint glass canning jar in the following order (from bottom to top); tortellini, dried tomatoes, split peas, carrots, and remaining seasonings. Cover jar and attach gift tag with directions for cooking.

Gift tag directions: Split Pea Tortellini Soup — Empty jar ingredients into a 3-quart saucepan. Add 5 cups water. Bring mixture to boiling. Reduce heater and simmer 50 minutes until peas are tender. Option: Add 1 cup chopped cooked ham or sausage. Makes 4 servings.

Friendship Soup

½ cup dry split peas
⅓ cup beef bouillon granules
¼ cup pearl barley
½ cup dry lentils
¼ cup dried minced onion
2 teaspoons Italian seasoning
½ cup uncooked long-grain rice
½ cup alphabet macaroni or other small macaroni (can be put in a plastic sandwich bag to make it easier for the recipient to get the macaroni out of the jar).

Additional Ingredients:

1 pound ground beef
3 quarts water
28-ounces diced tomatoes, undrained

In a 1½ pint jar, layer the first eight ingredients in the order listed. Seal tightly. Yield: 1 batch.

Gift tag directions: Friendship Soup — To prepare soup: Carefully remove macaroni from top of jar and set aside. In a large saucepan or Dutch oven, brown beef, drain. Add the water, tomatoes, and soup mix, bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer for 45 minutes. Add reserved macaroni, cover and simmer 15-20 minutes or until macaroni, peas, lentils, and barley are tender. Yield: 16 servings (4 quarts).

Survey Shows Sales Increases In Barbecued Pork Sandwich, Pulled Pork

DES MOINES, Iowa — The 2001 Restaurants and Institutions Menu Census shows two pork items in the dozen foods that show the greatest increases as sales gainers.

In describing consumer desires, one chef explains that people want different things that are familiar to them. That is also the theory behind pork advertising and promotions emphasizing the "other" in the Pork. The Other White Meat slogan.

The 2001 Restaurants and Institutions Menu Census shows that in the greatest sales gainers, the barbecued pork sandwich ranked fifth and pulled pork ranked twelfth. The pulled pork sandwich rose 59 percent from the survey two years ago. These cuts are from the shoulder, which is about 17 percent of the pig.

"The increase in the pork that comes from shoulder cuts is important because that's a part that's typically underutilized," said Steve Schmeichel, a pork producer from Hurley, S.D., and chairman of the National Pork Board's Demand Enhancement committee.

"This leading foodservice magazine survey echoes what checkoff-funded research has shown. It also shows that we're ahead of the curve on the ethnic cuisine currently being served and likely to be added to the menus."

The magazine survey shows ethnic cuisine most often represented currently include Mexican, Tex-Mex and Chinese. Pork producers already are allocating some of their checkoff investments to further research Hispanic marketing efforts and plan to start promotions and advertising in that area in 2002.

By segment, bacon is key to leading sellers in breakfast in casual and family dining, hotel/motel, hospitals and other noncommercial companies such as business, industry and military foodservice.

In the casual dining area, barbecued pork sandwiches are selling well and pork entrees are gaining on menus. For casual dining restaurants planning to add a meat dish to their menus, the most likely offering is a pork tenderloin. Pork chops sell well in the casual dining segment, according to the 2001 Restaurants and Institutions Menu Census.

Also, the pork chop is emphasized in new recipes for foodservice that were developed by some of the pork industry's Celebrated Chefs, a handful of prestigious chefs from around the country that pork producers name as spokespersons in each of the past six years.

For more information on these checkoff-funded programs, check the Internet at www.porkboard.org or call 515-223-2600.

Barring Indian Summer, Foliage Will Be Bright

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Hot autumn days and mild nights — many wish for Indian summer this time of year. But if you want a bright, colorful foliage display in October, you shouldn't, according to an expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Weather is very important," said Marc Abrams, professor of forest ecology and physiology. "We need to have cool temperatures falling into the high 30s or 40s at night, as well as bright sunny days with little rain."

If temperatures cool over the next four weeks with little rain falling, fall foliage watchers in Pennsylvania should be treated to a superior display of color this year, Abrams predicts. "If we cross our fingers and Mother Nature cooperates, we should have good color by the middle of October," he said.

For 15 years, Abrams has studied how seasonal precipitation and temperature influence timing and intensity of fall colors in central Pennsylvania. "We believe that clear, bright days, low — but not freezing — temperatures and dry conditions promote the best fall colors," he said.

Cooler temperatures signal deciduous trees to stop producing chlorophyll, the green pigment responsible for photosynthesis, he explains. The chlorophyll breaks down and disappears, unmasking other leaf pigments. It's these other pigments — called xanthophylls and carotenes — that create the yellows and oranges seen in the leaves of yellow poplar, hickory, sycamore, honey locust, birch, beech and certain maples.

After chlorophyll production stops, trees also produce another pigment in their leaves called anthocyanin, Abrams explains. The anthocyanins create the brilliant reds and purples seen in maple, sassafras, sumac, black gum and purple oak.

The amount of anthocyanin produced each year is related to starch levels in the tree. Trees often produce less starch during droughts. Much of Pennsylvania experienced a significant drought this summer, but Abrams doesn't believe most trees were stressed enough to significantly impact fall colors.

This year's drought, however, may cause some highly stressed trees to change color earlier than normal or to display rather dull coloration. Overall, there is still a high potential for most trees to show their true, vibrant colors this year, Abrams predicts.

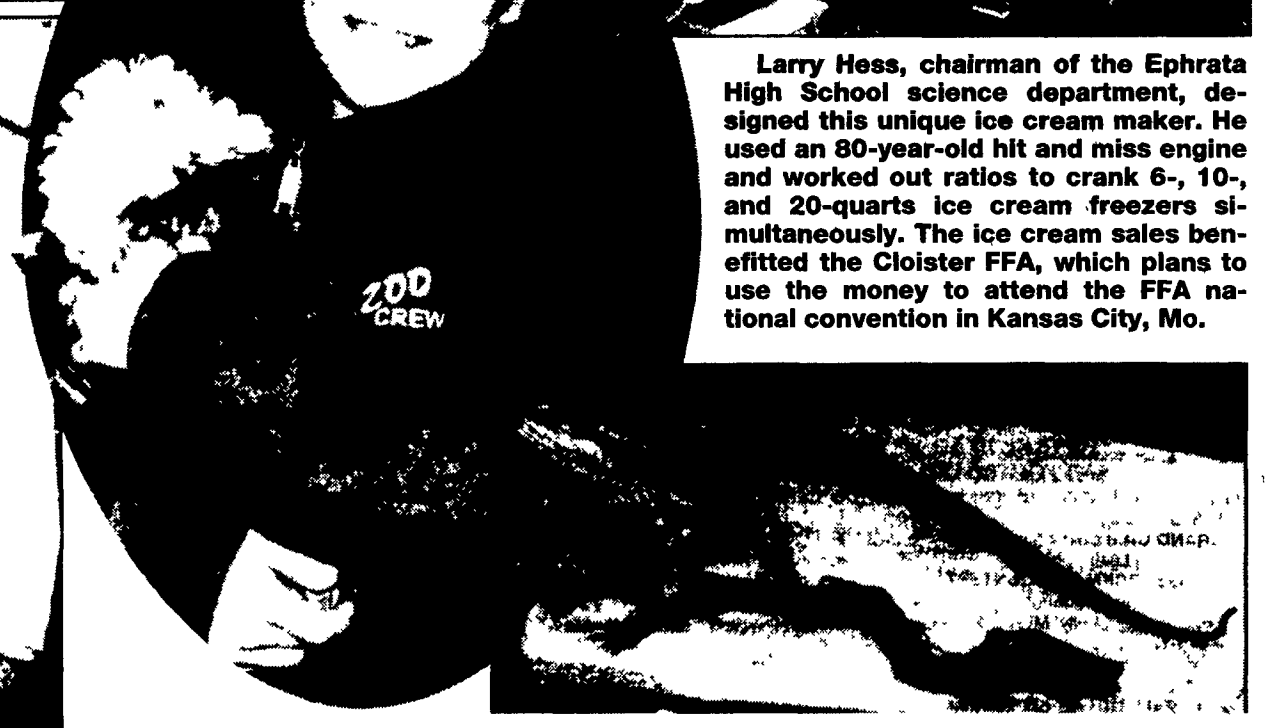
Family Fun At Ephrata Fair

Fairs are always great places to meet friends and acquaintances. These three families met unexpectedly inside the livestock tent, Ephrata, to renew acquaintances. From left are Dawn Heisey holding 4-year-old daughter Grace, Fivepointville; Beth Rimmer with 3-month-old Collin taking a snooze and 4-year-old Mallory; Carroll and Jean Ditzler, Mt. Gretna, holding granddaughter McKensie McCloud, 14 months.

Larry Hess, chairman of the Ephrata High School science department, designed this unique ice cream maker. He used an 80-year-old hit and miss engine and worked out ratios to crank 6-, 10-, and 20-quarts ice cream freezers simultaneously. The ice cream sales benefitted the Cloister FFA, which plans to use the money to attend the FFA national convention in Kansas City, Mo.

Five-year-old Grace Lewis, Brandywine, visits Ephrata Fair with grandparents, Sue and Joe Lewis, Ephrata.



Anna Mae Shirk holds a Polish chicken on display at the Ephrata Fair Petting Zoo. The chicken was part of a collection owned by the Barnyard Inn, Adamstown, which provides a wide variety of unusual animals for picnics, birthday parties, and special events. The owners Pam and Jerry Pozniak can be reached by calling 1-888-Pet-Mobile.

This bearded dragon, shown above, isn't the typical animal on display at fairs, but it sure attracted lots of attention at the Ephrata Fair Petting Zoo.

Jenniffer Zimmerman is a consistent winner in sheep shows, but more than 50 years ago, her grandmother was the one to show lamb champions. Maxine Flory said that she showed champions at the Pennsylvania Farm Show. At that time, a uniform pen of three lambs was required for judging. Maxine met her husband-to-be Lloyd at the Farm Show. The couple has been married 52 years and reside in Lexington.

At the Ephrata Fair, a bearded dragon intrigues this group: Alec Soltys, 4; Steven Andriana, 3; Selena Bowe, 8; Reginia Bowe, 9; Nick Cicchetti, 11; and adults Del Soltys and Larry Bowe.

4-H'ers Compete In Livestock Events At Cambria County Fair

Rohrer Uses Art To Put The Icing On The Cake

A piece of terry cloth wrapped around the cake pan helps to bake the middle of the cake before the edges turn brown, says Rosie Rohrer, owner of home business "Rosie's Creative Cakes."

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — "I like to be able to create something that when people see it, they look at it as art. If they say it's too pretty to eat, or if they have a hard time cutting it, I know I did my job."

Rosie Rohrer's cakes have been the centerpiece of many birthdays, anniversaries, baptisms, commencements, bridal and baby showers, and weddings.

Owner and operator of "Rosie's Creative Cakes," an in-home business, Rohrer has been turning out colorful confections from her home for her customers.

An In-Home Business

Managing the schedules of three young children and coordinating efforts with a farmer husband is far from "cake."

It does, however, offer her the flexibility of working a full-time job while still being able to pick up her children at practice, attend games whenever possible, and do what she enjoys and has worked for years to perfect: decorating cakes.

Two years ago the Rohrers converted their living and dining room to consultation and production areas.

Support from husband Dwight is a necessary ingredient to the business. "He is really supportive and helpful," she said. "Without him, I wouldn't do this." Grandparents have also provided needed child care, she noted.

"It's nice to be able to work at home," she said, but was also clear that working at home can provide unique challenges. "I have to be able to balance phone calls and the kids' schedules and needs."

The addition of hired help one day a week to aid with housework has eased her load a bit, and Rohrer has also recently added an employee who she is teaching the trade.

Although self-employment offers flexibility, it also means that Rohrer must take charge of her own professional development. Rohrer continues her education by perusing newsletters that include recipes, hints, pictures and "how-to" write ups.

"I have files of magazine articles for reference," she said. Seminars at conventions have also expanded her professional experience.

During her career Rohrer received a scholarship and was able to take a class from an instructor who also had an in-home business for a week. She is hoping to go to next year's convention in Nashville, Tennessee.

Career Beginnings

She became fascinated with cake decorating during her growing-up years on a nearby dairy farm.

"I remember watching my sister-in-law decorating a cake for me and thinking, 'if I could decorating a cake, I could do anything,'" she said.

After taking cake decorating in 4-H for three years, Rohrer worked in a grocery store bakery during her high school years, followed by a job she held as a cake decorator in a local restaurant bakery.

"Once you learn the basic skills, it's a matter of perfecting them. Working in a bakery you get that practice," she said.

Timing Important

Her weeks are carefully planned to make sure all the cakes are finished on time.

"Because this is a small business, I have to be efficient. If I am baking and decorating at the same time, I'm not efficient," she said, pointing out that she needs the workspace for one activity or the other.

Rohrer does most of the baking for the week on Tuesdays and Wednesdays. "I need at least one week's notice," she said.

Rohrer bakes cakes for not only birthdays but also weddings. She normally books two weddings per week but may do three to four.

Thursdays are spent decorating and mixing up icing and hand-made decorations. Fridays are also decorating days and Saturdays are set-up days for the weddings.

Saturday schedules are made more challenging as Rohrer must work around florist and reception hall schedules. Many of the smaller-order cakes, such as cakes for anniversaries or birthdays, are picked up on Saturdays. These cakes take 45 minutes to an hour to decorate plus clean up and baking time.

Evenings during the week may also find Rohrer consulting with brides-to-be as they discuss wedding cake options.

She shops for her cake ingredients weekly and per month for the necessary paper products. Flour and sugar comes into her kitchen in 100-pound bags. Additionally she buys eggs by the case.

Cake Designing

The cake tops are often unique to each customer, who may bring her napkin designs, party plates, wall paper, fabrics, cards, or invitations to help Rohrer coordinate the color and design of the cake with the party.

Rohrer may also use computer graphics or photographs to design the cake. A black-and-white sketch may form the basis for several layers of stencil. Rohrer places the stencil on the cake and adds color with an air brush.

Often Rohrer adds additional sugar mediums, such as gum paste or buttercream flowers, to add depth to the cake design.

"I don't like to use all one medium on a cake," she said. "I use very little pre-made plastic items. Most of the items on the cake are edible," she said. Many of Rohrer's orders are layer cakes, which she prefers to work with since they travel easily.

The "icing on the cake" is buttercream, royal, sugar paste or meringue for the flowers that may be made ahead of time as they are pressed into a mold and dried. A European style of icing, rolled fondant, may also provide a smooth finish to her cakes. Cost depends on design, since the cake and flowers are priced separately.

In the spring, the fruit flavors and fillings are more popular. The cooler weather brings requests for chocolate, spice, carrot, and red velvet cake. Rohrer's personal favorite is chocolate and peanut butter or carrot cake.

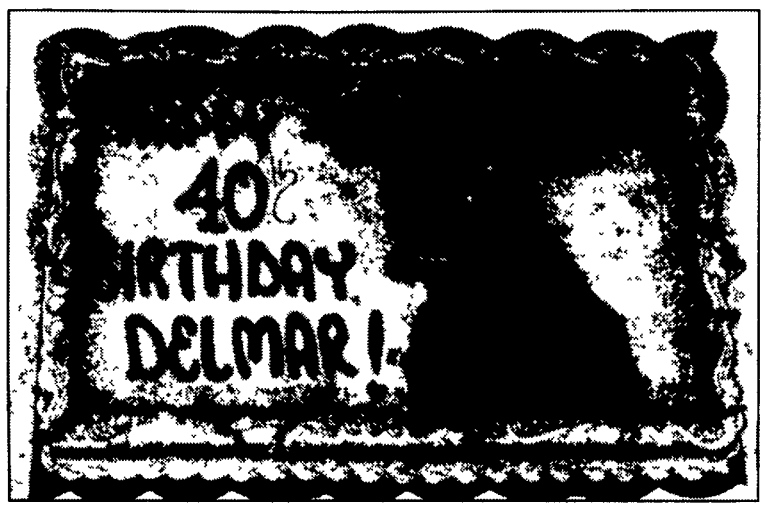
Baking Hints

Rohrer is generous about giving out her kitchen hints.

"Know your oven and how it bakes. Every oven bakes a little different. I don't time anything, I just take it out when it's done," she said.

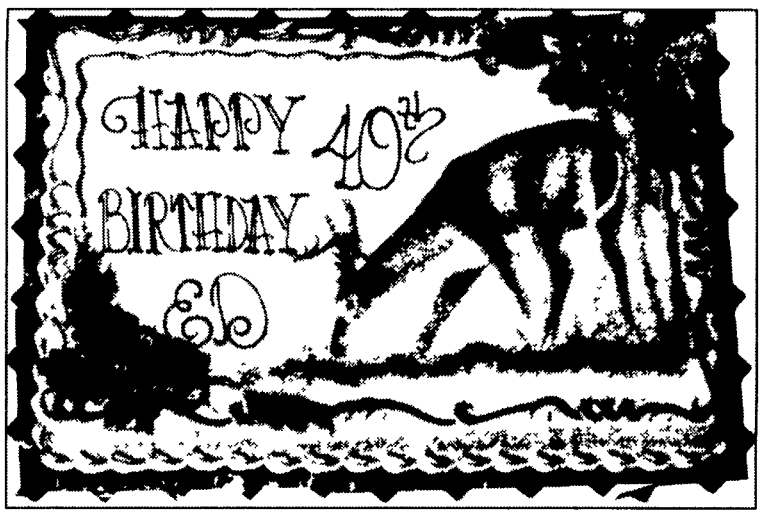
Another secret of successful cake baking includes wrapping a strip of terry cloth (an old towel), around the cake pan, which insulates the cake. This helps to bake the middle of the cake before the edges turn brown.

Additionally Rohrer bakes her cakes at 325 degrees, which may take longer, however, she believes, will leave more moisture in the cake.

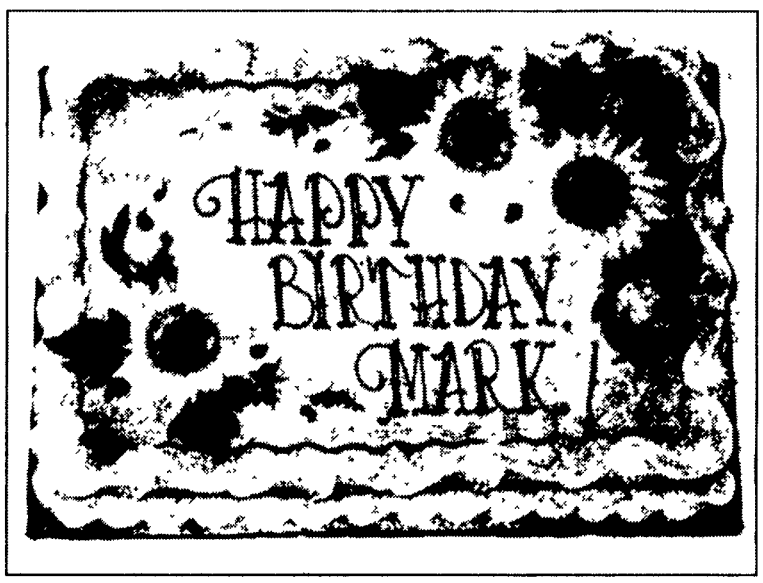


Even livestock can inspire a cake design.

Marble cake is an oft-requested flavor.



A stencil aids Rosie in creating the air brushed cake designs which are complemented by icing pine cones.



Sugary sunflowers top this birthday cake.

This wedding cake shows the smooth surface of rolled fondant icing plus the sugary roses and other flowers Rohrer makes.

Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser

One morning last week, I decided to go fishing in the Conestoga River. I drove down a lane near my home to one of our summer cottages. Then I followed some steps built to the water. It was very quiet as no one was anywhere nearby.

A red-tailed hawk flew by and some white ducks flew upstream. A squirrel overhead caused acorns to drop behind me. I caught several small fish, but only kept one as I do enjoy eating them.

Last month my husband took his boat, on a trailer, to Beltsville Lake. He forgot his electric motor but the gas engine worked okay. We fished until noon when we ate our lunch in a small cove surrounded by trees as the sun was shining brightly. On the way home, we visited his brother who lives in Berks County.

When we got home, I picked up more fallen apples to make sauce. So far, I've put some 40 quarts in the freezer. A basket of plums gave us almost 30 quarts to put on the canning shelves.

Yesterday I dug two kinds of sweet potatoes. Despite the dry weather they are one crop that gave a fine yield. We shall have to share some of our bushels of sweet potatoes. They grew to gargantuan size and will take a while to cook soft.

My husband pruned some of our overgrown shrubbery while I dug the potatoes and picked the lima beans.

There is always work to be done if you feel like doing it. We are glad for an ample food supply this winter.

Splashy Holstein Takes Supreme Title At West Lampeter Dairy Show

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

LAMPETER (Lancaster Co.) — From 52 entries at the Lampeter Fair Dairy Show, Ed Brackbill, Chester County, judged the young Holstein shown by Lindsey Howard as the supreme over all breeds.

"It's splashy. A young cow with style that catches your eye and shows great potential. Everything fits nicely," Brackbill said.

Style is in the bloodlines of the heifer named Charisma. Lindsey the dam was last year's champion at the show. It is one of the heifers and calves that Howcrest Holsteins kept after selling the milking herd in January.

Lori Hess of Fox Rock Farm, Pequea, showed a three-year-old junior Brown Swiss to win the championship in that breed.

James Findley, Lititz, swept championships in the Ayrshire, Guernsey, Jersey, and Milking Shorthorn breeds.

Findley prefers a mixture of breeds in the 60-head milking herd known as Lace Acres, which he and his father, Ken Findley, own.

"I like Ayrshires the best because they are better forages," Findley said. "Except for the Guernsey, all my champions were bred and owned."

Berks Celebrates Transportation Heritage

READING (Berks Co.) — In today's hectic fast-paced world, we often overlook our past and the rich transportation history of Berks County. On Saturday and Sunday, October 6, and 7, the Berks County Parks and Recreation Department presents the 20th annual heritage festival from 11:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Come and recapture your past at this festival dedicated to celebrating our area's history and transportation heritage through exhibitions, demonstrations, music, lectures, Living History walks, and arts & crafts displays.

On Saturday, visitors can see an antique auto and farm equipment display. Featured will be riding demos by local 4-H Horse Clubs and a demonstration by the Reading Police K-9 Unit. At 1:30 p.m. take the back trail to the Old West with Guy Bieber, a Buffalo Bill reenactor as your guide. With a little help from the Rajah Shrine Mounted Patrol, Buffalo Bill will perform a drill routine and relate stories of the Old West, the Pony Express and his days in the Wild West Shows.

Children can enjoy many of the activities we have planned just for them, including pony rides; storytelling, games, crafts, and a pedal tractor pull (registration required). The day will also be filled with special programs and walking tours of the Heritage Center grounds (registration required for the Living History Walk). The topics of these lectures include Berks County Canal Tenders Living History, the Deppen Cemetery, the Herb Garden and the history of the Red Bridge. The engine that powered the Gruber Wagon Works, the Otto Gasoline Engine will be "fired-up" in demonstrations throughout the day.

Musical entertainment on Saturday will feature the Jeff Umbehauer Trio at 11:30 a.m., the Country Western Dancers of Reading at 2:00 p.m. and Sonny Miller and the Happy Valley Boys at 3:00 p.m. Artists and craftsmen will be displaying and selling their work, as well as demonstrating their talents from 11:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

On Sunday, the festivities continue with a Carriage and Wagon show featuring full size and miniature vehicles. The antique farm equipment show, children's activities, home craft demonstrations and artist & crafter displays will also continue. Highlights of the day include a plowing and horse-pulling exhibition, along with a horse and wagon obstacle course.

The main stage area will feature our PA German Celebration beginning at 12:30 p.m. with the musical entertainment from Craig Fisher's German Heritage Orchestra, the Happy Dutchman German Band, and Toad Creek Ramblers & Blue March Jiggers and Lester Miller Hoedowners will perform at 3:45 p.m. The PA German Dialect Program will feature speakers: Reverend Merrill Ressler, Die Dolpehok Sanger Chor, the Young PA German Splinters from Oley.

ANSWER — Kathleen Reiff, Stevens, requested help in trying to locate out-of-print books by the author V.M. Hillyer. She especially wanted "A Child's History of the World," "The Ancient World," "Young People's Story of Agriculture," and "The Americas."

Thanks to Robert Shaub who writes that the books Kathleen requested are listed for sale on the Internet, where prices vary considerably. Many editions of "A Child's History of the World," are listed with a first edition costing as mush as $275. Reprints are less. Shaub recommends checking the Internet address: wwwbibliofind.com, which is a used book division of Amazon.com.

Also, Rebecca Zook writes that she has one of the books Kathleen Reiff, Stevens, requested. She called it "Young People's Story of the Americas," which is titled a bit different than Kathleen wrote it but is probably one that she wants. Call Rebecca at (717) 442-8743.

ANSWER — Ironically both a question and answer were sent in this week in regards to the the discontinued strawberry pattern of Corelleware made by Corning. ANSWER — Paul Helm had requested a book, "There Was An Old Woman." Thanks to Robert Shaub who wrote that many books have been written with this title. Without an author the book search is almost impossible. If Paul has access to the Internet, he should go to bibloiofind.com and type in the title to see the books available and the author.

Potluck Suppers

How many memorable potluck suppers have you attended?

In the "olden days" it was just that — potluck — each family brought a casserole, salad, or dessert of their choice to share with the group.

These days, it is more sophisticated: We sign up to bring a dessert or pasta salad or something specific.

No matter if you bring your favorite dish or your assigned one, potluck suppers are served buffet style. Food needs to be handled safely to make sure your potluck does not become bad luck with a serving of foodborne illness.

When you are preparing for your next potluck supper, here are some tips for keeping food safe:

- Always wash your hands before and after handling food. Keep kitchen surfaces, dishes, and utensils clean, too.
- Cook foods to proper temperatures. If you are preparing a casserole, cook to 165°F and use a food thermometer to test the temperature.
- When cooling food, divide large portions into shallow containers to cool quickly and store in the refrigerator until just before you leave.

On the road —

- Pack cold foods in an insulated cooler with an ice source to keep them cold.
- To keep hot foods hot, use a thermal blanket or a Styrofoam chest to help maintain heat.
- If possible transport foods cold and reheat when you arrive.
- Travel directly to the event; avoid making extra stops along the way.

On the table —

- Food should not sit at room temperature for more than two hours. If you have not stored food in an ice chest or added heat, you need to count that time as part of the two-hour time limit. When the two hour time limit is up, discard the food.

Meeting before eating —

- Plan events so that you eat as soon as possible as guests arrive.
- If food must be held keep hot foods hot by using the oven, a chafing dish, slow cooker, or warming tray.
- Keep cold foods cold by placing food in the refrigerator or in an ice chest with lots of ice.
- Food that has lost heat needs to be reheated quickly to 165°F.

After the event —

- Discard any leftovers after the event.
- September is National Food Safety Month. Observe this event by handling all foods safely every day and "When in doubt, throw it out."

Don't Ignore Inflation

Perhaps the biggest enemy of your retirement account is inflation. Consider the loss of purchasing power of your savings over a 10-year period. In constant dollars, $100 would be worth only $74 after 10 years if inflation averaged a rather low three percent; at six percent inflation, it would be worth only $54; at eight percent inflation, $43; and at 10 percent, only $35.

Since 1992, the rate of inflation, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics (using the U.S. city average for all items), has been a mild 3.4 percent or less.

Some of you may remember the period from 1979 to 1981, when it ranged from 10.3 to 13.5 percent.

Within a few years, it was actually negative. The last time that happened was 1955. Wherever you invest your retirement savings, you need to take into account the rate of return after inflation.

Cocalico Valley Sale Showcases Primitives, Country Antiques

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

ADAMSTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — How often have you listened with envy to the owners of treasured antiques make the following statements: "This school master's desk belonged to my great-grandfather who taught in a one-room schoolhouse"? Or, "this Hepplewhite blanket chest was passed down through my family for generations"?

Perhaps you wish that your grandmother had valued family heirlooms instead of discarding them in preference of modern decor. Or that those country crocks relegated to the ground cellar for many years hadn't been trashed in favor of a clutterless basement.

Those not fortunate enough to inherit family treasures can still share in the joy of owning authentic antiques. Truthfully, acquisitions often require a bit of research to find the treasures and some well-earned dollars to pay for them. But buying these finds can be ever bit as rewarding as inheriting some.

If you are looking for country—especially antiques from Lancaster and Berks Counties—then the upcoming Cocalico Valley Antiques Show and Sale, Oct.12-13, Weaver's Market Pavilion, Route 897 one block west of Route 272, Adamstown, is one you won't want to miss.

Some people searching for authentic antique furniture from Lancaster, Berks, and surrounding counties might be tempted to think worthwhile pieces have been snatched by dealers. Antiques from these counties have long been valued for both their aesthetic and historical value and are used extensively in country decorating. But the good news is that pieces consistently are up for sale.

When parents and grandparents die, many children do not treasure family pieces and are quick to dispose of them at estate sales or auctions. Unfortunately, working people do not have hours to spent sitting at a sale in hopes of obtaining a piece that they most likely will lose to a higher bidder. That's where people such as Ira and Shirley Parmer, Lititz, offer an alternative.

The Parmers frequent weekly estate sales and often attend three to four auctions on a Saturday morning in search of authentic antiques, not to add to their own collection but to pass on to others. Many auctioneers know them by name and call them whenever they have upcoming items they know the Parmers desire. The Parmers often place bids on items when they can't attend a sale.

"I'd love to keep many of these pieces for myself," Shirley said as she showed a collection of 18th century pieces. "But then we wouldn't make a living."

Folks such as the Parmers display their finds at select antique shows. The advantage of buying from a reputable dealer at a show is that you don't need to worry about being deceived about the authenticity or value of pieces. Through years of experience the Parmers have learned to differentiate between "real" and "fake."

"You make a mistake once, and you never forget it," Parmer said of bidding on a piece at auction only to discover it was pieced together and the imperfections disguised.

About 30 dealers such as Ira and Shirley Palmer who have earned a reputation for having quality antiques will exhibit quality and variety at the Cocalico Valley Antiques Show and Sale. Featured will be fine early china, glassware, period furniture, primitives, iron, metal, textiles, rare books and more.

The Parmers have spent the past year collecting antiques and collectibles for the show. Some of their finds include a mid-1800s high chair. According to Shirley, the year is determined by the style, wood, and finish. During that era, trays were not attached to high chairs.

The sheen of the well-worn finish speaks of years of use and beauty.

"We never refinish pieces," Shirley said of the value placed on retaining the antique beauty.

A school-master's desk with a large drawer at the bottom is dovetailed in front and back and still has its original red paint. The desk is unique because of its unusually large drawer and is dated between the late 1700s to the early 1800s.

A wonderful collection of crocks will be sold. Some of these will include a two-gallon jug crock from West Troy, N.Y. Some of the jar crocks from the mid 1800s have lids and others were designed to wax seal with a wooden lid.

"The amazing thing is that many of these greatly used crocks survived," Shirley said of the Lancaster County antiques include a mid-1800s highchair, a late 1700s school master's desk, a variety of blue decorated stoneware, an 1850s bucket bench, a flame-painted chest, an 18th century hooded cradle, and a 1790-1800 pin-top Hepplewhite table.

Ira and Shirley Parmer are best known for their extensive collection of English white ironstone in many different patterns. Shown are teapots in the Niagara and an unidentified pattern, which has recently been discovered. The bluish white ironstone was considered the American substitute for fine china during the 1840s-1860s.

Famous Dog 'Nipper' Evokes Talking Machine Heyday

Talking machines and related memorabilia will be exhibited at the Historical Society of Berks County, today through Jan. 5, Tuesday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. "A Century With the Victor Talking Machine" includes early examples of Victor talking machines from 1901 through its glory years until its merger with Radio Corporation of American, RCA Victor. Numerous examples of Eldridge Johnson's famous dog Nipper listening to his master's voice and strategies of the company's marketing schemes will be displayed. Thomas McCarthy, who is responsible for curating the exhibition, will discuss the history and demonstrate several of the machines on selected dates. Demonstrations are scheduled for Oct. 20, from 10 a.m.-non, and Nov. 10, from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. For more information, call (610) 375-4375.

hard use associated with preserving food in them.

Shirley opened the door to a bucket bench. The inside of the door is marked with grain painting.

"If the same painting appeared on the outside, this piece would be worth three times its price," Shirley said.

Even so, the bucket bench speaks of the days when it was heavily used to hold milk containers and other items.

"Flame cherry wood was highly prized," Ira said of the wood that revealed a natural flame designed when cut. "But if you couldn't afford it, a local craftsman flow-painted the design on the wood."

Such is the case of a medium-sized chest. The flame design of the original paint is barely discernible except in bright light. The shape and size of the chest is in great demand by collectors.

Tough for the Parmers to part with is a Hepplewhite pin-top table dated between 1790-1800. The four wooden pins can be quickly removed to lift off the tabletop for easy scrubbing after using it for butchering or pie making.

Ira said the dates of these tables are determined by the legs. Up until the 1800s, the leg was flush, after the 1800s the leg was indented slightly and a bead extended around the bottom edge of the table. After 1810, the leg was indented but no bead appeared around the bottom edge.

A hooded wooden cradle from the 18th century is of solid cherry and in original condition. To dress it up, Shirley stitched a mattress cover using old ticking fabric. She stitched a pillowcase from old muslin with embroider and old lace. A patchwork quilt draped over the cradle will be sold separately.

The Parmers will also be selling pieces of English white ironstone, for which they are best known among collectors. Two of the pieces are unusual teapots — one is a Niagara pattern and another is unidentified.

When purchasing teapots, coffee pots, and sugar bowls, it is most important to make sure the lid matches. The size of teapot and sugar bowl lids are interchangeable, but there is a difference. Teapot and coffee pot lids always have a small hole called a steam or weep hole.

Although most items are worth more in their original states, some touched-up pieces develop their own following of collectors. Such is an old 1940s mortar that contains a dried flower arrangement. The design was fashioned by Doris Stauble of New England and is valued at $685.

The annual show benefits the Historical Society of the Cocalico Valley, 249 W. Main St., Ephrata.

Several years ago the annual event had been conducted in Ephrata. But, according to the Parmers, the large, enclosed Weaver's Market pavilion is an ideal place for a show. Items can be easily loaded and unloaded and the spacious size allows plenty of room for the displays and the crowds. The site is also near many other well-known sites that are considered the heart of the antiques capitol of the world.

Admission to the Cocalico Valley Antiques Show and Sale, Rt. 897 one block west of Rt. 272, Adamstown, is $3.50. The show is open Friday, 11 a.m. - 8 p.m. and Saturday, 11 a.m. - 5 p.m.

For more information about the show, call Fred Buch, vice president of the Historical Society of the Cocalico Valley, (800) 242-3901 or (717) 733-6614.

Artistry Of Old Maps Reflect A Changing World

Collectors and historians agree that maps from the past offer a mirror to changing civilizations and social attitudes.

"Scotland was once a relatively unknown outpost at the edge of civilization. Today it is one of the most mapped countries in Europe," said John Hyman, who will be guest curator of a loan exhibition, "At the Edge of the World: Mapping Scotland, opening in November at Colonial Williamsburg.

In 1611 a history book of Great Britain had drawings depicting early Scots with painted and tattooed bodies, notes Hyman.

From a collectors' point of view, even maps showing changes in boundaries in the 20th century are highly collectible, and still available and affordable for beginners. For instance, the changing European boundaries when countries were swallowed up and names change during World Wars I and II.

Early American maps always find buyers and for top dollars. Even when their condition isn't very good, their rarity makes the exception. An example would be the 1876 lithograph of a topographical view of Valley Forge during the encampment of Washington's troops, 1777-1778. It was damaged and "laid down" (glued to a backing), yet it found a buyer at auction for $287.50 under estimate.

There are many types of maps to collect such as road, military, marine, railroad and celestial.

Clues: Many of those historic maps you see displayed in offices and restaurants may have been made "yesterday" and artificially aged. Some clues are faked damage made with burns, candle wax and wine stains and browned paper. Other times these so-called "antique" maps are new reproductions aged with weak tea an even cigarette ashes. Placed in an old flame, it could fool a beginning collector.

Before spending big money, take a strong magnifying glass and look in the corners for copyright dating. People tend to look at what is supposed to be an old map, but overlook a 20th century copyright.

Before spending big money, ask the dealer to let you examine the map out of the frame. It could even be a cardboard print. Even if it is on Vellum, used several hundred years ago, that's no guarantee of age. It, as well as paper or parchment, may have been artificially aged. Holes and spots of dirt can be clues to fakery. Afterall, maps have always been prized and kept in good condition when possible.

There are many ways to put together a collection. It might be maps relating to your city, state or county. Choice, regardless of age, are old maps with quaint dolphins, griffins, and ships. Often early maps were illustrated with sea battles and pirates filling in uncharted areas. Very expensive are maps of voyages showing historic ships.

To stimulate young people's interest start them hunting in old books and Atlases for map pages. Even if the book is in poor condition, the inside can contain a treasure trove of more than a dozen insert maps or foldout maps. However, some Atlas's have more value intact. You wouldn't want to destroy a copy of Colton's General Atlas, c.1857 with its' 170 steel plate maps, worth more than $3,000.

Many auction houses hold specialized map and manuscript auctions. Among them Sotheby's and Swann Galleries in New York; Skinner Auctions in Bolton, Mass. If you are serious, subscribe to their catalogs.

Ask your local book dealer or map dealer about the many map societies that hold yearly meetings. This offers a good opportunity to have hands-on experience with authentic maps and talk with experts in the field.

Antique Detective Questions And Answers

I have a set of Franciscan pottery, many pieces, in the apple pattern. Where can I find the Collector's Encyclopedia of California Pottery by Jack Chipman that you mentioned in your column?

J. Blew - Neshanic. NJ

Write your request to Shroeder Publishing Co., Collector Books, P.O. Box 3009, Paducah, KY 42002-3009.

I found this old Indian pottery vase when disposing of my mother-in-laws belongings. It is somewhat worn with a small patch on the rim but otherwise in good condition. 7x7 inches with a spout on each side. It has a painted design that looks like feathers. What can you tell me about it and the value?

J.P. - Lakeland, FL

From your photo you appear to have a Southwest polychrome pottery vessel possibly used for ceremonial purposes. Only a hands-on expert can date and evaluate it. Send photos to Douglas Diehl, American Indian expert, Skinner Auctions, 357 Main St., Bolton, MA 01740.

Can you tell me anything about this side by side cabinet and desk of oak? It has curved glass on the cabinet side with a mirror over it.

D.R. - Boynton Beach, FL

Your golden oak combination bookcase-desk was made around the turn-of-the 19th century in many variations. It is currently very desirable. It would find a buyer at auction for $2,000 or more.

I am a 92-year-old who used to play golf at Silverlake and La-Touvette many years ago. I have a variety of 1930s wood handled golf clubs. Among them 2, 5, 7, 9 and 10 clubs marked BTN

Questions And Answers

(Butchard-Nicholls) autographed and a Davega putter marked W.S. Smith. Any value?

L.D.M. - Staten Island, NY

Golf collectibles are becoming increasingly popular. Unfortunately there is no "fast" way to evaluate. Get help from a friend to check out the book, "Antique Golf Collectibles: A Price and Reference Guide." Krause Publications, 1997, by Chuck Furjanic. Write to Krause Publications, 700 E. State St., Iola, WI 54990-0001.

Have a friend check the reference books under price guides at the library. Contact one of the collectors clubs, Gold Collectors Society, P.O. Box 20546, Dayton, OH, 45420.

I acquired this Hartford Insurance advertising sign. I think it is made of plaster of Paris. Any idea of value or age?

From your photo, your sign, with the original frame could date late 19th century. It could indeed be plaster-of-Paris. If original, it could sell in a collectibles auction for from $2,000 up.

I inherited this armchair with the heavily carved, pierced back that is more than 100 years old. It is similar to the oak chairs you wrote about years ago that dated to the 1640s. I would appreciate your opinion of age, value.

D.G.W. Jr. - Coral Gables, FL

From your photo your oak armchair is similar to the 16th century folding chairs referred to as "Dante." Yours appears to be American, Renaissance revival style, c. 1875. A dealer would probably price it at more than $1,000.

Recently I found several old metal hotel keys in a drawer at my grandmother's house. She was going to throw them out. They are from hotels in Miami and Chicago dating around the 1950s-1960s. I thought they could be interesting even if of no value since everything these days is plastic. What do you think?

M.S.D. - Naples, FL

You are right - they are an interesting reminder of the past. 20th century hotel keys range in value from a few dollars to $100. The more unusual the design and famous but no longer existing hotel, the more value. They would indeed make a unique collectible when displayed.

Guernsey Named Supreme At York Fair

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — A tall, framey Guernsey, owned by junior exhibitor Terri Johnson, got the nod of judge Dan Carroll for supreme dairy champion at the York Fair.

Rutter Bros., Fayette Lizzy, a senior 3-year-old, won both junior and open class Guernsey shows, besting four contending breed champions during the show's finale on Sept. 14. The supreme winner is scored VG-89 and milking 95 pounds daily. For each of the past three years, she has won Junior All-American designations.

Her 4-year-old herdmate at the Rutter's Dairy farm, Rutter Bros. Enhances Lily, was selected reserve senior and grand champion of the Guernsey breed show. Lily, from the same maternal bloodlines and scored EX-92, is currently the number two cow on the Guernsey CTPI list and also owned by Terri Johnson. The Johnson family, of York, made a clean sweep of the breed's champions. Kelly Johnson, exhibiting the junior champion summer yearling, Rutter Bros., Royal Boomer, topped her sister Terri Johnson's reserve junior winner, the winter calf Rutter Bros. Royal Oaks Lovely. All champions were the same in the junior division show.

Jamie Welsh, 15, East Berlin, was selected the dairy showman champion in the junior competition, over top handlers from four age groups. Other age group winners were Terri Johnson. Kelly Johnson, and Amanda Thompson.

Partial lists of winners in both the York Fair junior and open class dairy shows follow:

New Skid Steer Family Provides 'Extreme' Performance

RACINE, Wis. — To answer the power, durability, and productivity needs of local farmers, Messick's, Elizabethtown, will offer the new XT family of compact and heavy lift skid steers.

The new XT skid steer line, available through the Case IH dealer network, offers advancements in power, lift capacity, reach, lift height, comfort and reliability, according to Messick's. The development group used feedback from consumers in both the agricultural and construction industries - as well as extensive field testing - to design and build these machines.

The XT family of skid steers features three new models the 40XT, 60XT and 70XT plus enhancements on the popular 75XT. Building on the durable unitized chassis, the XT line ranges from 60 to 85 horsepower with lift capacities from 1,500 to 2,200 pounds.

A number of new productivity-enhancing features extend to all members of the XT skid steer family. Optional two-way self-leveling prevents load loss when raising or lowering the lower arms for superior handling and maximum productivity. In addition, a ride control feature reduces spillage by cushioning the load on rough terrain, which translates to quicker job completion. Ride control also increases operator comfort and reduces wear on the machine.

In addition, Messick's offers a complete line of skid steer attachments for agricultural applications, including bale spikes, pallet forks, buckets and more. An optional hydraulic attachment quick coupler on all XT models makes it possible to drop and switch buckets directly from the operator's compartment.

The line of buckets for the 40XT, 60XT, and 70XT skid steers are more compact and powerful than competitive models. At a mere 60 inches wide, these small-frame models deliver maneuverability in tight workspaces such as machine sheds and barn. In addition, they offer lift capacities of up to 2,000 pounds.

Operators can take more lift capacity into tighter workspaces than ever before with our XT skid steer line, according to Messick's. Compact overall dimensions, combined with a longer wheelbase for stability and a better ride, offer optimum performance in the tightest package possible.

In addition, design improvements on the loader arms provide new levels of reach and lift height, giving the XTs excellent range for lifting, placing, and dumping. The bucket hinge-pins have been raised, providing extended lift height. With the new low-profile bucket, extended forward reach has also been improved.

NEW! Vermeer 554XL Baler:

UP TO $600 IN CASH AND INCENTIVE BONUSES ON VERMEER BALERS DURING OCTOBER

Here's why:
- 5-bar pickup handles bigger windrows, faster speeds.
- Simple, horizontal bale-starting system is designed for fast starts
- Bottom drum design lets you pull in hay faster; often allowing you to drive a full gear faster.
- Best HaySaver Wheels in the field.
- Up to 1200 lbs. in a single 65" dia. x 48" wide package; 2000 lb. capacity with silage baler option.
- Silage option lets you bale wet or dry without changing a thing.
- Makes bales 17% larger* than a standard 5' dia. x 4' wide baler at virtually the same price! ****

Cut-Out Clutch Protection
No more burnt or hot discs to wrestle with. Great protection .. for those times when your baler's pulling harder on the outside rows, the tractor's overpowered, or you accidently overfill when trying to bale that last strip of hay.

* determined by comparing volume measurement of a standard 60" dia. x 48" wide bale versus a 65" dia. x 48" wide Vermeer bale
 Price comparison is based on published list prices (Y2000) between Vermeer 554XL Series Baler and other 5 x 4 competitive round baler models

York Fair Chooses Swine Champions

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — A 256-pound crossbred pig snagged top honors at the York Fair, claiming the coveted supreme champion barrow banner for junior exhibitor Kurt Long, Airville.

The lean, but solid-built, gilt won the heavyweight division, then caught judge Bob Mikesell's eye in the supreme run-offs to top the reserve entry shown by junior exhibitor Lane Innerst, Red Lion. Innerst's hog was also a heavyweight contender, topping the scale at 270 pounds. Teaming two well-matched entries for the pairs competition took the supreme banner in the pairs run-offs for junior Russell Wilson, New Freedom.

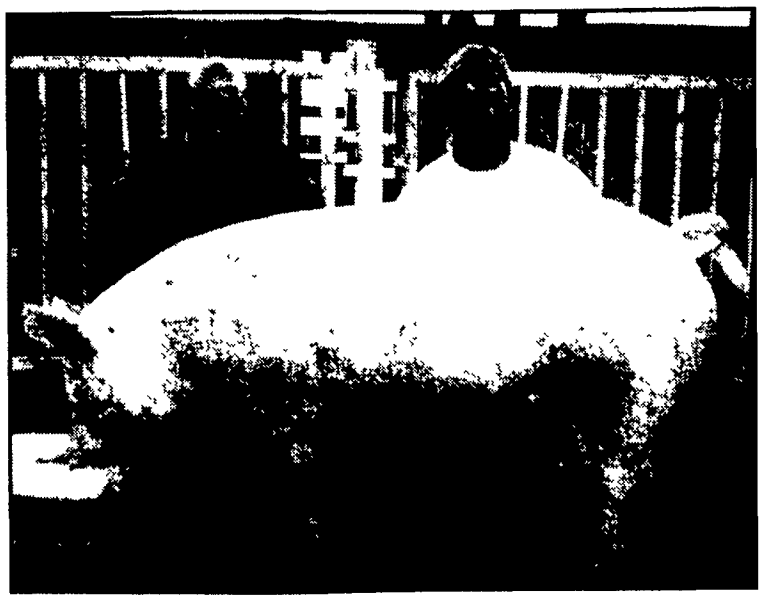
Open class breed show supreme boar and sow honors both went to the Yorkshire entries of Mike Weber.

In the junior swine breeding show, Allen Cornbower, New Freedom, exhibited the champion Berkshire gilt. Jessica Innerst, Red Lion, held the reserve champion placing. Andrew Bankert took both champion and reserve awards in the Chester White division. His brother, Matthew Bankert, exhibited both the grand and reserve winners in the Duroc classes.

Hampshire breed honors went to Jessica Innerst, who exhibited both the grand and reserve winners. Emily Robinson took champion and reserve in the Spotted Poland and Landrace classes, and Russell Wilson earned champion and reserve placings in the Yorkshire competition.

Champion swine showman was Lane Innerst, 16, and Matt Bankert, 11, snagged the reserve champion trophy. Brothers Andrew and Matt Bankert shared the fitting honors, with 8-year-old Andy named the champion and Matt, 11.

Supreme champion boar at the York Fair was the Yorkshire winner exhibited by Mike Weber. With Weber is judge Bob Mikesell.



Top sow at the York Fair was Mike Weber's Yorkshire entry, named supreme after earlier winning the breed show. Judge Bob Mikesell is with the winner.

Case IH Offers New Mower Conditioners And Self-Propelled Windrowers

RACINE, Wis. — Case IH introduces a new line of pull-type mower conditioners, self-propelled windrowers and headers to match them.

"This introduction puts the Case IH brand at the forefront of this important market segment," says Patrick Carter, Case IH product marketing manager for hay and forage equipment. "These machines are designed to maximize the productivity of hay and forage producers, regardless of their operation's size."

The new Case IH mower line includes: three self-propelled windrowers; three disc mower conditioners; two sizes of center-pivot machines; a side pull-type model with a 9-foot, 3-inch cutting width; and a choice of sicklebar, disc and draper headers in a variety of sizes to meet customer needs.

The new Case IH mower conditioners offer a choice of rubber-on-rubber or steel-on-steel conditioning rolls.

Sicklebar mower conditioners are offered in both center-pivot and conventional configurations.

Disc mower conditioners come in three new models from Case IH. They include: DCX101, with a 10-foot, 4-inch cutting width and eight discs; DCX131, with a 13-foot cutting width and 10 discs; and DCX161, with a 15-foot, 7-inch cutting width and 12 discs.

On all three disc models, slip and over-running clutches protect the PTO drives. The reliable discs operate at 3,000 rpm for consistent cutting. Roll separation is automatic on-the-go for worry-free operation when slugs are encountered.

Case IH WDX Series self-propelled windrowers are now available in three models that ensure clean cutting and smooth crop flow at high volumes.

"Our windrower cab offers excellent operator comfort, good visibility, and controls that are conveniently positioned," says Carter. "The WDX control lever is adapted from the one used in Case IH Axial-Flow combines to simplify operation for Case IH customers."

Each windrower can be equipped with a sicklebar header in one of four cutting widths ranging from 12 to 18 feet. In addition, the WDX1701 can be equipped with either a sicklebar or disc header.

Waterbeds for Cows

ALANTA
A member of the LinPoly group of companies Patent Pending

The ALANTA Waterbed for cows is a revolutionary product, comfortable, safe and hygienic. It clearly improves your cows' well-being and therefore promotes higher milk production. It is the ultimate stall floor covering for the modern, animal-friendly dairy farm.

WELL MADE
The ALANTA Waterbed is made of two rubber layers with a water-filled compartment in between. GD-Enerka gives a 10-year guarantee.

COMFORTABLE
The waterbed molds itself to the cow's shape. It's cool in summer and pleasantly warm in winter.

SAFE
Thanks to the non-slip rubber upper surface, the cow is gripped firmly and cannot slip off. In this way the ALANTA waterbed keeps damage to hooves to a minimum.

Having Problems Getting Milk Cold?
Consider a Mueller pre-cooler. It's an excellent way to lower the cost of cooling milk. It reduces milk temperature with water pumped straight out of your well. Mueller® precoolers are available in sizes to work with any system. If lower electric bills would make your life easier, call us and ask for more information on Mueller precoolers.

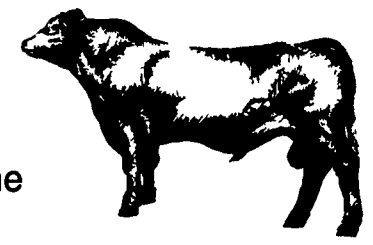
Simmental Steer wins prize at Huntingdon County Fair



Ashley Morgan's purebred red Simmental steer won her the $100 special weight gain prize at the Huntingdon County Fair. The steer, sired by a Son of Macfrid to an Americana cow and bred by McClure Mills Farms, Shirleysburg, outgained all other steers entered. BEST BLOOM

Are you getting horses ready to sell or show? Do you like to keep your horse's in full bloom, smooth and sleek? Do you like the idea of having a first glance at your horse's result in an appreciative full look? And most important, does saving money appeal to you?

You don't need to spend those big bucks on all those fancy feed additives. Two or three pumps on top of your horse's feed morning and evening (depending on his size) will put on the bloom that you love. Used with good feeds and a regular worming program

Best Bloom will do the job!!

One gallon with pump:	$13.95
Five gallon container:	$39.95

If you want your farm sold list with Sanford Leaman, Realtor TODAY! I have ready, willing & able buyers – but my inventory is extremely low.

Dauphin Co.: 82 Acre Beef and Poultry farm is a good investment for any serious buyer. The Organic egg contract is an excellent money maker and a first rate building with only the 2nd flock in the building which is just over 1 year old. What's best is the building is fully automatic and temperature controlled even if you aren't there. The land is very fertile with all the manure there is little or no fertilizer required for excellent crops. A private setting with silo's for the cattle operation and a very comfortable farm family residence. Serious buyers call for a private showing.

Union Co.: 31 acres of the best limestone soils in the valley just west of Lewisburg. Build your own house and horse barn or poultry house or maybe even a veal setup. A fresh water stream runs along the southern border and can be fenced for part of the full stream for your use.
